TWO FREIGHTS.

They Come Together with a Fearful Crash in the East.

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 15.—A wreck occurred about 7:30 last night on the Pennsylvania railroad near Princeton Junction by which thousands of dollars' worth of property was destroyed or damaged and four men so badly injured that it is thought they will die.

Two freight trains running at a high rate of speed collided, demolishing both engines and many cars and piling the tracks high with wreckage. Traffic was delayed for over four hours. All of the injured men are employes of the railroad.

All the News on this Interesting Subject Gathered for the People Who Read the Busy Bee.

New York, Sept. 15.—The bulletin issued by the health department says that in the 48 hours to 3 p. m. to-day, no new cases of cholera have been discovered or developed.

New York, Sept. 15.—The Herald this morning in its article about cholera obtaining a foothold in New York, says three other cases have been reported as suspicious, but have not yet been approximately determined.

The investigations of the Herald have shown where the cholera probably came from in at least one case, and suggested the source of the other contagions. It came through the port of New York.

Immigrant passengers on the steamer Friesland which arrived here on August 29, seem to have brought the disease to little Minnie Levinger, who died on September 11. They are traced back to Antwerp, which they reached from other cities in Europe, no doubt infected with cholera. When they reached quarantine there was illness reported on board and after a few hours' detention and so-called fumigation, they were permitted to proceed.

From the steamship pier the passengers scattered over the city and the country. Four young women of the company went to No. 411 East Forty-sixth street, where little Minnie lived. It appears that being greatly interested in the child they spent some idle hours playing with it. There is every reason to believe that the infection was in their clothing; that they innocently carried it about with them, escaping its dangers themselves, and that from their clothing the child got the disease which carried the little one off in 24 hours.

In the case of Callahan a plausible connection seems to be established between him and immigrants who arrived in the city by trans-Atlantic steamers, went south by the Mallory line, to whose pier Callahan was often taken by his business. He was a butcher.

In other instances the relatives and physicians have not been able to suggest the precise method of the infection, but it seems not unlikely that it came about in some similar way.

Dilutions, imitations, and counterfeits of Dr. Pierce's medicines, though sold at lower prices than the genuine medicines, are dear at any price. Beware of them. Old bottles are refilled, new ones tampered with, all sorts of substitutes offered at "cut prices," by unscrupulous dealers, who are not authorized to sell Dr. Pierce's genuine medicines. Don't be deceived by them.

These genuine, world-famed remedies are now sold only through regularly authorized agents, and under a positive guarantee of benefit or cure, or money refunded. The makers take all the risk. Practically, they sell them to you on trial. On these liberal terms, the genuine guaranteed medicines can be sold only at these long-established prices:

Golden Medical Discovery, $1.00 per bottle.
Favorite Prescription, . $1.00 per bottle.
Pleasant Pellets, . . . 25 cents per vial.

But, sold in this way and at these prices, they're the cheapest medicines that you can buy, for you pay only for the good you get.

Cholera Telegrams from All Over the World.

Hamburg, Sept. 15.—There have been 669 fresh cases of cholera in this city today, or 41 fewer than yesterday, and about 100 fewer than the daily average for the previous two weeks. The deaths have numbered 203, or 24 fewer than yesterday. The interments have numbered 313. In the cholera hospitals and barracks 3,912 patients are under treatment. The mortality is mostly among half-starved women and children from the poorest quarters of the city. Among the families of small tradesmen the mortality is almost nil, and it is believed that in the better parts of the city proper the infection has been practically stamped out.

London, Sept. 15.—The steamer Holdemess arrived at Hull to-day from Cronstadt, Russia, the captian reported that during the voyage two firemen in the crew had died of cholera. The steamer was at once fumigated and placed in quarantine.

Amsterdam, Sept. 15.—The cholera has not spread in any part of Holland, so far as heard from, but occasional deaths from the disease are reported at different localities.

Havre, Sept. 15.—Seven deaths from cholera were reported yesterday and eleven new cases.

Quebec, Sept. 15.—The steamship Lake Huron, from Liverpool for Montreal, which passed Father Point yesterday, is now at Grosse Isle quarantine. She reported that during the passage there were several deaths of children on board but from what cause was not stated. It is, however, denied by the quarantine officers that there are any cholera cases on the ship.

Quebec, Sept. 15.—Following immediately upon the heels of the report from New York of five deaths in that city from Asiatic cholera comes a report that the Beaur line steamer Lake Huron, now on her way up the river and which passed Father Point yesterday morning, has Asiatic cholera on board and that six deaths have occurred during the voyage. The Lake Huron has not yet reached quarantine, and until she does no confirmation or denial of the report can be expected.

Cincinnati, Sept. 15.—Health Officer Prendergast when informed that cholera had broken forth in New York, said: "I will declare the city of Cincinnati now under quarantine. It will be as strict as martial law during the war. We are threatened with an enemy whose ravages are horrible to contemplate and no effort will be spared to prevent its introduction into this city. Every port in the state will be quarantined and guarded."

Babylon, L. I., Sept. 15.—Babylon was excited at midnight by stories to the effect that cabin passengers of the Normannia had escaped from Fire Island. Conductor Freeze, of the Long Island railroad, came to the Watson house late last night and said he had a passenger from Babylon for New York who had paid his fare in German gold. The passenger was accompanied by several women and the party was nervous.

Later a boatman told some persons whom he met that he had earned $130 since dinner by bringing a party of persons from Fire Island that had come from Cepheus.

NO OCCASION FOR EXCITEMENT.

President Wilson, of the Board of Health, Has No Fear of a Spread of the Infection.

New York, Sept. 15.—President Wilson, of the board of health, said last evening that there was no occasion for excitement in the city. The health department has taken every possible measure to prevent the spread of the infection. Mr. Wilson was averse to talking on the subject and said the bulletin of the health department contained everything there was to be said. Sanitary Superintendent Edson said there was no danger of cholera becoming epidemic. There would be sporadic cases, he said, for at least sixty days, until real cold weather sets in, which would have the effect of stamping out the disease.

The health officials have sent to Ellis island for the passenger lists of all vessels that have arrived here since August 23. Every effort will be made to trace the passengers as far as practicable. Dr. Edson said the infection which caused cholera to break out here must have come through some quarantine. It may have been caused by some infected baggage or clothing or some passenger who came ashore may have communicated the germs. The source of infection is being investigated very carefully.

The board of health has caused to be printed in English, German, Hebrew and Italian, for distribution throughout the city, a circular which is a reproduction of the widely-published "Don't" circular issued by the board of health of this city when the Moravia first brought the plague into this harbor. It contains minute details as to diet, preventatives, etc.

THE DEAD.

Official Report of the New York Board of Health.

New York, Sept. 15.—The board of health announced that from a bacteriological examination made by Professor Herman Briggs on the bodies of several suspected cholera patients, there have been five deaths from Asiatic cholera in the city of New York. The names of those who died from cholera are:

Charles McAvoy, who died September 6, at No. 879 Tenth avenue. Mrs. Sophia Wigman, died September 10, at No. 768 Eleventh avenue. William Wigman, husband of Sophia Wigman, who died at the same address on the following day. Minnie Levinger, a child, who died on September 11, at No. 411 East Forty-sixth street. Charlotta Beck, thirty years old who died at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, at No. 1764 Second avenue.

All these cases were originally reported to the health department as suspected cholera, and had been under the investigation of the physicians connected with the department. Professor Herman Briggs, who is in charge of the division of pathology and bacteriology of the health department, has been at work making bacteriological examinations of the intestinal fluids taken from the bodies of those suspected cases. Professor Briggs reported to the health department this afternoon the result of his examinations and announced unhesitatingly that the cases were Asiatic cholera beyond any doubt.

Wm. Wigwam was 52 years of age, and his wife, Sophia, was 63 years old. He had been sick for eight days and his wife had been ill for about the same length of time. She died on Saturday and he on Sunday. The physicians who were attending them reported to the board of health that they believed the deaths were due to cholera. By the order of the board of health the bodies were removed to the reception hospital at the foot of East Sixteenth street, where they were examined by Prof. Biggs.

Charlotta Beck, who lived at No. 1764 Second avenue, was found sick in her apartments yesterday morning. She was attended by Dr. Vandergaltz, of No. 193 Second avenue, who saw her at 9:30 o'clock. He reported to the health board that in his opinion her's was a case of cholera. She, too, was removed to the reception hospital until her death, which occurred at 11:30 the same day.

Charles McAvoy was 35 years old and a plasterer's assistant. He died at No. 879 Tenth avenue. Minnie Levinger was one year and eight months old. She died at No. 411 East Forty-sixth street, where her parents lived. The physicians of the health department have been unable to find out how the cholera was contracted in each of these cases. So far as they have been able to learn none of the dead persons came in contact with the cholera in germs. Every precaution has been taken taken to prevent the spread of cholera in these different houses. The bedding of each of the patients has been burned, and all the houses have been placed under observation.

PITTSBURG ALARMED.

An Emergency Hospital to be Erected on the Hilltops.

Pittsburg, Sept. 15.—To-day the health authorities of Pittsburg took steps toward the erection of an emergency hospital for the accommodation of cholera patients. The building, 30 by 70, will be erected on the hillside overlooking the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, near the location of the West Pennsylvania hospital.

On and after to-day all immigrant trains on the B. & O. railroad will be held in quarantine at Rankin station, just outside of the city limits.

Three comfortable coaches will be placed on a sidetrack there for the reception of indisposed or suspected foreigners.

Two officers and a physician will thoroughly inspect every train upon its arrival. If any on board are ill they will be removed to the hospital cars, where they will be attended by nurses and physicians in the employ of the company.

Each train and baggage of the passengers will be fumigated before being permitted to enter the city.

Like restrictions will be instituted on trains arriving from the east on the Pennsylvania railroad.

The passengers on eastbound Chicago express No. 8 on the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad had a terrible fright this morning. When 15 miles west of the city Mrs. Crane, of Janesville, Wis., who was traveling with a party en route to Washington, was taken suddenly ill. Conclusions were jumped at and her ailment was pronounced Asiatic cholera. When the train arrived in Pittsburg, a physician and ambulance were in waiting at the Union station. After a hurried examination by the physicians they announced that the ailment was heart trouble and the patient was removed to the West Pennsylvania hospital.

SENSATIONAL CONFLICT.

Cowboys and Smugglers Come Together.

Five Men Were Killed During the Battle, Which Lasted Half an Hour.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 15.—A ranchman living near Presidio reached here yesterday and brought the news of a sensational conflict between cowboys and a band of Mexican smugglers, which occurred Modnay night 15 miles north of Presidio.

An organized gang of desperate outlaws have been making war on the interests of stockmen for some time, and, owing to the poor protection given them the loss of cattle has been heavy.

The smugglers are led by Soli Mendoza and their plan of operations have been to make a raid upon some ranch on this side of the border at night and drive the cattle across the river into Mexico, where they would be driven into the mountains and later on find their way to Mexican markets.

Monday night Mendoza and 10 comrades reached the ranch of Michael Lendover, 20 miles north of Presidio. They started to drive off about 500 head of cattle. A Mexican herder gave the alarm to the herders and 25 of them started in pursuit.

A running fire with Winchesters was kept up for half an hour, during which Charles Thomas, superintendent of the ranch, and Juan Pelascos, a cowboy, were killed, while the smugglers lost three men. The surviving smugglers retreated across the river and are hiding in the mountains.

THE DALTON GANG.

Fierce Conflict With United States Officers.

Two of Them Killed and Five Captured—Marshal Williams Injured.

Paris, Tex., Sept. 15.—A dispatch from Deming, N. M., states that Deputy Marshal Sam Williams, of Paris, has captured Bob Dalton, Grant Dalton, Amy Dalton, Sam Wings and "Three Fingered Jack," of the Dalton gang of train robbers. In the fight between the marshal's posse and the robbers two of the latter were killed and five captured. Three of the gang are yet at liberty.

It is supposed the gang intended to rob the Southern Pacific while on their way to the Mexican border.

Marshal Williams bears evidence of the fight, several fingers of his right hand being shot off:

Shortly after the last raid by the outlaws which occurred at Adair, Indian territory, July 14, Williams started in pursuit of the desperadoes. He followed them out of the territory into Kansas, then to Colorado and New Mexico where the capture was made.

The Dalton gang is wanted in the Indian territory, Kansas, New Mexico and California to answer to the charge of train robbery. The rewards offered by the officials of the railroads and of the express compaines robbed in Kansas and California aggregate $22,000.

NEW YORK STATE.

The Republicans Capture the City of Buffalo.

Fifth Annual Convention of the Clubs.

President Carkson Delivers the Annual Address.

He Tells What the Party Has Before it.

Sentimental Talk Must Be Cast Aside for People are Demanding that the More Important Questions Be Discussed.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Every available inch of space in the new Music hall was occupied when President Clarkson of the League of Republican Clubs, called the fifth annual convention of that organization to order at 10 o'clock this morning.

President Burke, of the College League of Republican Clubs, is present at the head of a large delegation from the various colleges in which clubs have been formed.

Most of the leading delegates, including President James S. Clarkson and Secretary Humphrey of the National league, Col. E. A. McAlpen, president of the Republican league of New York state, John M. Thurston of Nebraska, Senator Woolcott of Colorado, Christopher I. Magee of Pittsburg, President Tracy and Secretary A. J. Lester of the Illinois league, President J. L. Crawford of the Kentucky league, president of the College league, and nearly all of the officers of the state organization, arrived yesterday and participated in the conference of National and State League officers which was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

A meeting of the executive committee of the national league was also held late in the afternoon at which the program of to-day's proceedings was mapped out.

President Clarkson's opening speech this morning occupied over an hour. He said:

"In the way of an annual addres I shall speak entirely of the league, its origin, its scope of work and its future. It sprang into existence from a popular demand and national necessity. The organization of the national league in Chickering hall in the autumn of 1887 made possible the election of a republican president in 1888.

"In the changed conditions of American politics, with political parties becoming more closely matched in strength and especially with the change from sentimental to economic issues, each party became convinced that a closer, more detailed and more continuous plan of organization had become necessary.

"The republican party saw the new condition of things first and moved forward to meet it and thereby saved the presidential election of 1888. That it was right in its conclusion and action has been proved since, both by its own success and by the fact that the democratic party which at first derided the league or club plan, has since the action of the republican party imitated the better method and adopted a club plan of organization of its own.

"The old plan of political work failed to reach with any certainty the increasing number of voters required by each party to maintain a majority in the republic. The old method had been the committee plan of the executive management of the party, or a chairman at the county seat, and one man in each township who were called six weeks before to a work for which scarcely any of them had been especially trained.

"This work was supplemented by campaign orators and political documents. The weakness of it all under the party ambition to gain enough recruits to secure a majority at the polls was that it gave too short a time in which to educate the voters and did not move enough of the forces of the neighborhhod or community to insure the coveted majority. Another weakness was, and is, that party committees thus constituted and given such a brief and insufficient time in which to perform their work, very often represented instead of the 100 per cent. of the party membership, simply the victorious faction of the party which in the last convention had chosen the candidates and made the ticket.

"The defeated faction rarely had any representation in the executive or committee management of the party and the party has always lost much of its virile force from this fact. Simultaneous with this great demand for a new form of party organization which would continue the work of educating, recruiting and organizing throughout, and which, in the campaign, would have 100 men in each township in the executive work instead of one, was the ascension of the party newspaper to be the great agency both of the party control and popular political education.

"In analyzing this new situation in American politics still further, in support of the newspapers and the league plan of organzation, it is only necessary to call attention to the fact that every language and idiom and jargon spoken anywhere on the face of the globe is now represented in America and they have to be reached in their own language to influence their votes in politics, so that it has become, in the changed condition in the United States, not only to be a work of constant education but it involves, either through the newspapers or through some form of literature, the employment of every language spoken to make known to every home in America the strength and good intentions of the policies and purposes of the republican party.

"Not only is there the enormous subdivision of languages, but in transferring our politics from heroic, or sentimental, to economic issues, there is left to be made by each party a campaign of education and recruitment for every business in the state and every class of workingmen and laborers, all economic issues touching every home, either to increase its comforts or decrease them. Thus it is true to-day that the father has come to be simply the trustee of the vote of his family. The woman has appeared in American politics and the home has become the unit of American politics.

"Conservative people may scoff at it, old fashioned men may deride it, but the power of the home is going to be more and more potential in American affairs. Very soon there will arise some great woman, who will organize in this great republic a league that will become speedily one of the first class powers in political America.

"The league plan came comprehending the fact that in the uneducated foreign vote in this country, in the illiterate vote of native and foreign born alike were to be found the greatest fear of republican defeat and the greatest peril to the republican republic itself.

"I am not of those who have fear of any good man or woman who comes to the United States for the honest purpose of finding an honest home. Whoever comes with such good intention should be made welcome. I do believe, however, that any and all elements which come to us in foreign tongues should be more speedily educated in our language and made more thoroughly acquainted with our institutions than is done now. I believe beyond this, that all vicious or pauper immigration should not be welcomed nor allowed to enter in legitimate competition with our honest working people, but should be absolutely forbidden.

"Every great and splendid thing that this great republic has given has been the gift of partisanship.

"This is a representative government based on party responsibility.

"The national league believes that the republican party is the party of patriotism and the party of fidelity to the people.

"As an organization therefore it enlists under the republican standard and comes also with the practical knowledge that while it works every day in the year and while it seeks to aid the hand of argument and appeal to every voter in the land, it is subordinate to the committee or regular plan of party organization.

"It bears no part in serving the individual ambition of men and it bears no part of an organization for choosing candidates or making party tickets.

"It works 10 months in the year, educating reluctant or uneducated voters, in making known the strength of republican policy, and two months of the year it marches with the republican column in the actual campaign.

"The national league in its sense of courage and duty feels no timidity in dealing with and boldly discussing every phase of American politics and every form of American life.

"The negro is already in politics and there to stay. What is called the 'negro problem' is no longer a southern or a sectional question. It will be a larger question to-morrow than it is to-day. It is folly therefore in the present and inexcusable cowardice as to the future, to ignore the gravity of this subject.

"There is no sentiment in the north which would put ignorant men in control of public affairs north or south, but never so long as the republican party remembers Abraham Lincoln, and its own origin and destiny, can it give its consent to its enormous doctrine that any man may be disfranchised in this republic because he is a republican or because he is black. If the son of Frederick Douglass may be disfranchised to-day, my son may be disfranchised to-morrow.

"Another great agency is the college club. While the republican party has always been the party of education it has been one of the marvels of the first century of American history that the great mass of American colleges, by the use of European text books on all economic questions, have taught our American boys European instead of American ideas on tariff, finance and other subjects.

"It is said to be true that money given by republicans has founded three-fourths of the modern colleges in America and yet it is also said to be true that nine out of ten of these colleges at least use only European text books and teach only European ideas of tariff and finance.

"We have been sending our republican boys to the colleges and complaining because they come out of them free traders.

"Now that the republican students in these colleges have formed clubs and begun the study of the tariff from the American standpoint they begin to compare the American doctrines with the doctrine they find in the European text books and a change has come and the colleges will inevitably not turn out so many free traders hereafter.

"The National College league, but it is the most active youngsters on the continent to-day, and I am glad that this convention is going to devote a portion of its deliberations to the consideration of this new element in our political affairs.

"The rising question of the time, in my judgment, the one on which the next national campaign is surely to be fought, is the labor question. By that time the McKinley bill will have fully demonstrated the wisdom of the American policy and will have gained the approval of a majority of the American homes as the permanent policy of this republic. Next November the workingmen and farmers and business men and all elements will join in striking down the declaration of the democratic platform of 1892 in favor of free trade as the American rule and free trade wages for the American workingman. The same good elements, I am sure, will also strike down with equal emphasis of disapproval the democratic declaration in favor of destroying our present system of currency and finance for a return to the wretched and disastrous form of state banks and unsound currency. After the vindication in November next of these great American ideas and the reaffirmation of a fearless and liberal Americanism, I am confident the republican party, which has already done more for the workingman than any party or any nation has ever before done for the working people, will take up the labor question more in detail and by such study and investigation of it through league clubs and other forms of discussion will reach by 1896 some method of tranquilizing entirely the question of labor.

"I leave to others the discussion of the general questions of the campaign. Having dealt so much at length with the league and its work, I now salute the republican national league with the hope that through its work in the past winter and with its help under the great leadership of the regular party forces in this campaign, republican victory is sure in November."

The roll call of the convention showed that the following states and territories were not represented: Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, Wyoming, Oklahoma, New Mexico.

Considerable applause was evoked by the announcement by Gen. Clarkson that he had just received a telegram from Whitelaw Reid stating that he would reach Buffalo this evening. The announcement that Gov. McKinley and Hon. J. M. Thurston were already in the city and that J. Sloat Fassett was coming to-night was also cheered.

It was voted to admit the American Republican College league to membership in the organization. This action was acknowledged by James Francis Burke, president of the college league, in a five minute speech from the platform.

Gen. Clarkson announced that committees were to be appointed on credentials, order of business, resolutions, league work, time and place of the next convention.

A delegate from Illinois moved that the convention adjourn until 2 o'clock, and the naming of committees go over until that time. After 20 minutes' discussion this was lost and it was voted to appoint the committee on credentials at this time, and all the delegations to name their representatives on the other committees at the opening of the afternoon session.

The roll of states and territories was called and the chairmen of delgations named the members of the committee on credentials.

GOV. BOIES IN IOWA.

He Opens the Campaign With Vigor.

He Talks to the Farmers Particularly.

The Protective Tariff the Greatest Blow the Tillers of the Soil Have Ever Received.

Carroll, Ia., Sept. 15.—(Special)—The Iowa campaign was opened here with the grandest political demonstration this place ever saw.

Thousands came miles to hear Gov. Boies discuss the issues of the day and they went away well repaid for their trouble.

Gov. Boies, after a few preliminary remarks, addressed himself to the tariff question, which he discussed at great length. He also took up the reciprocity scheme, which he characterized as "free trade to the extent stipulated in the contract between this country and the country with which the agreement is made, accomplishing through mutual arrangements with individual nations instead of general laws that effect all nations alike."

He declared, however, that reciprocity treaties were never made with countries that take large quantities of farm products; hence the farmer did not profit by them. Gov. Boies then repeated the famous statement, made in his speech at the tariff reform banquet in New York in 1890, that the corn crop of Iowa had sold for $7.33 an acre, or 67 cents less than it had cost to produce it, saying nothing about the use of land on which it was grown.

He then continued: "The estimate of the cost of producing corn was based solely upon the opinion of practical farmers in our own state, and the yield per acre and the market price was taken from the most reliable statistics attainable.

"They presented, however, a most startling fact. They demonstrated a truth of which the farmers themselves had been ignorant, for it showed them that during those years they had been producing the most important crop raised on their farms at a heavy loss if their labor was calculated at the price others received for similar work in other lines of business.

"There are few of you, my hearers, who do not still remember the spirit in which this great question, so vital to the farmers of Iowa was met by the protective organs and orators of the state.

"I want the farmers to realize what is true, that they of all others are the victims of a protective tariff.

"That it is upon them that its heaviest burdens are laid and to them that the least of its blessings are given, and knowing this, if they still feel it their duty to uphold this system because they were republicans when other issues were involved, or because their fathers before them were republicans, this is their business, not mine."

Gov. Boies then took up in turn the currency question, the federal elections bill and prohibition, closing with a review of state issues.

ANGLICAN ARROGANCE.

It Will Receive a Check in Venezuela.

The United States Will Resist England's Attempt to Gobble South American Territory.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The situation of affairs in Venezuela causes some concern among the administrative officers of the government and among the officers of the navy.

It was stated some time ago in this correspondence that the reason why so many United States vessels were ordered to Venezuelan waters is not only to look after American interests directly, but also to have an eye on them indirectly, as the welfare of the Venezuela republic is connected with ours.

The encroachments of Great Britain upon Venezuela during the last few years have been open and insolent. The first steps taken by the United States which offered an indication of the manner in which Great Britain's aggressions were regarded by this government, were under the administration of Mr. Cleveland.

Secretary Bayard, while in the state department, wrote to England's prime minister, calling his attention in diplomatic language to the land grabbing which her representatives were visiting upon a friendly republic on this continet, and intimated very strongly that it might be as well for them to cease.

Great Britain, as is usual with her, put the amtter off by entering upon an exchange of notes with Mr. Bayard, while its representatives in South America continued with the aggresion.

President Harrison has made no secret of saying that Mr. Bayard's position was so strongly taken that he has assumed it as a basis of his actions in the matter so far. The present internal troubles in Venezuela are seemingly to be taken advantage of by England, if the latter country finds that she can do so with impunity.

For that reason she is making a naval demonstration in force in Venezuela waters. The United States fleet of vessels which will soon be concentrated at Laguayra under the command of Admiral Walker, will have instructions which will be found to be contradistiction to England's assumptions of right and territory.

It is not expected that any real trouble will eventuate. On the contrary, it is thought that as soon as England sees that the United States means business in extending aid toward a sister republic she will haul off, at least for a time, and again resume her literary tactics of exchanging notes on the situation.

There is a very good authority for saying that the present administration is determined to recede in no measure from its strong suggestion to Great Britain that the matter in dispute in regard to the boundary line between Venezuela and British Guiana be submitted to arbitration in which this government is to have a hand.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 15.—This noon the Lewiston Journal had returns from 429 towns, nearly the whole state. Cleaves, republican, for governor, has 65,683; Johnson, democrat, 53,116; Hussey, prohibition, 3,180; Bateman, people's, 2,262. Republican plurality, 12,668. The remaining towns will not materially alter this result. So far as heard from the republicans have elected 111 representatives and the democrats 34, with 60 still to hear from. The last house consisted of 110 republicans and 41 democrats.

JIM CORBETT AS AN ACTOR

The Champion to Appear on the Stage.

He Will Assume the Role of a Student,

Bank Clerk, Boxing Instructor, and Prize Fighter in His New Play of "Gentleman Jack."

Chicago, Sept. 15.—The new play in which Corbett, the vanquisher of Sullivan, is to be seen at the Haymarket soon is entitled "Gentleman Jack," and the cast will include the California champion; Daly, his boxing partner; Delaney, his trainer, and Dillon. In it Corbett will take the part of a college student, bank clerk, boxing master and pugilist.

The first act opens with Corbett as a college student at old Princeton. The scenery will be painted from photographs of the campus. Jack will be represented as the hero of his classmates and the best all-round athlete in college. The heavy villian of the play is a Princeton student in Jack's own class and his constant rival in the sports of the college. Jack invariably defeats him, and this lays the foundation of his jealousy and ripens into hatred when they find they are both in love with the same girl.

Through his childhood Jack had been taught to believe that his father was dead, but the villian accidently discovers that his father, soon after Jack's birth, had been accused of murder and sent to jail, from which he subsequently escaped and disappeared. In his hate for Jack, the villian tries by spreading this story to turn the boys against their favorite. Jack's mother now improves the opportunity of a visit to her son at college to tell him the sorrowful story of her husband's life, and Jack sees how his enemy has, in a way he did not suspect, worked against him. Jack is no angel, however, and takes advantage of the beautiful chance to get even.

The time is at hand for the annual football game between Princeton and Yale teams. The game forms the last scene of the first act. Jack and his enemy are both in the Princeton team. The ball is put in play in actual college style, and in the scrimmage which follows Jack plants himself upon his enemy and in a self-determined way proceeds "to put a face on him" that football men will appreciate. The act ends with Princeton's victory, and the curtain goes down on a stage scene of waving orange and black, tooting horns, and cheering girls, for Jack's sweetheart, of course, is there to watch him.

The second act discovers Jack an employe of the bank of which his enemy's father is president. The same hatred pursues Jack here. An old man appears, who is hired to repair some broken locks on the premises, but manages to keep a watchful eye on the young employe and thwart the plans of his enemy. While the audience is wondering why the playwright introduced the old man, Jack's brother chances to enter the bank, and, coming face to face with the pretended tramp, is betrayed into a hysterical cry of recognition. Jack's ever-present enemy is, of course, on deck and, his suspicions being aroused, puts a watch on the old man and discovers that he is Jack's father, the escaped murderer. The villain, however, does not inform on him. He is too cute for that. The tramp's profession —that of a locksmith—gives him his cue. He concocts a deep-laid plot by which the crime of stealing is laid at the old man's door. By a cunningly contrived plan the plotter makes the old man believe that Jack will be accused, and in order to spare him the blight of suspicion the disguised father flees. Jack, on the other hand, is led to believe that the real thief is the old man, and, furthermore, learns that he is his father. Not knowing of his flight, Jack, in heroic self-defense, takes the guilt upon himself, and though his employer believes he is shielding another, and will not prosecute him, Jack must leave the bank.

The scene in the third act is laid on the roof of the Madison Square Garden in New York city. Jack is in the new capacity of professor of boxing at the well-known New York Athletic club. The cause for which he was driven from the bank is not publicly known and he moves in the best society and among the swell clubmen, particularly, is a great favorite. His sweetheart, much to his delight, still remains true to him. He has made quite a reputation in the meantime as a boxer, so much so in fact, that his club friends are decidedly anxious to match him against any of the present-day champions, but having an instinctive dread of the prize ring he will not enter it. His old enemy, believing that the only way in which he can win the love of Jack's sweetheart is by reducing the hero of the play to the level of a defeated pugilist, he imports an English prize fighter named Charley Twichel. Jim Daly, who has been Corbett's boxing partner, will take this part, and for six weeks before the big fight of September 7th Daly had been growing side whiskers to assist his makeup for the part. The Englishman, following out a plan previously adopted, insults Jack in the roof garden, the latter resents it, and as a last resort accepts Twichel's challenge to fight the pugilist at the Olympic club, New Orleans.

In the last act the curtain rises on the training quarters at Loch Arbour. On the side of the stage stands the little barn, an exact reproduction of the one where Corbett did his training, showing Deal lake and the cottages at Asbury Park in the distance. In this scene all the paraphernalia that Corbett used previous to his fight will be exhibited on the stage. Jack appears behind the footlights with Delaney and his other trainers, punches the bag, and wrestles just as he did when preparing to whip John L. The second scene shows the interior of the Olympic club at New Orleans after the fight. Photographs were taken of the battle ground and the scenes will be painted from them. In this act all the preparation for the fight will be shown. The entrance of the principals and their seconds, the exact speech as it was listened to September 7th will be heard, the bets of the audience, the working of the famous electric gong, the examination of the gloves, all of which will be made quite realistic. The fight occurs. A dastardly plot to dose Jack is furstrated and as he meets the English pugilist the excitement in the stage audience becomes great. The girl who all along has been true to Jack and repelled the advances of his rival has found it impossible to stay away at this climax and has bribed her way in in male attire. There are six whirlwind rounds, in the last of which the disguised sweetheart faints and Jack has won. The curtain falls on a mutual happy reunion with the single exception of the presence of Jack's father.

TEN THOUSAND DOOMED.

A Whole Army of People Sent to Siberia in a Month.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 15.—The Messenger states that between April 29 and August 29, 21 caravans, with 10,934 persons, departed for Siberia.

MRS. MAYBRICK.

Further Attempts to Get Her Out of Jail.

New York, Sept. 15.—A dispatch from London says: One more petition has been added to the thousands of appeals already sent to the queen pleading for the release of Mrs. Maybrick. The last petition differs from its predecessors in being signed almost exclusively by people belonging to the well-to-do and upper classes. The document reads as follows:

"The petition of the undersigned humbly showeth—That at the assizes held at Liverpool in the year 1887 Mrs. Florence Maybrick was placed in the dock on the charge of murdering her husband, when a verdict was returned against her by the jury, and she was sentenced to capital punishment. That certain representations being made to your majesty that there was some doubt as to whether the said crime of murder had actually been committed, the sentence was commuted to one of penal servitude. That since the time referred to no further evidence has been discovered tending to incriminate the prisoner. May it therefore please your majesty to further commute the said sentence, or grant a remission of the remainder thereof."

POLITICS IN THE EAST.

Governor Hill Mingles With the Leaders.

Republicans Claim the Maine Vote Was Not Significant—General Mention.

New York, Sept. 15.—There is unusual activity among the politicians to-day. Senator Hill slipped quietly into town and went to the Normandie. He was out until late, conferring with the powers in control. Hon. Whitelaw Reid has also returned from his western trip, and causes more or less animation on the republican side. Secretary of State John W. Foster is another bright light on the scene.

Chairman Carter and his republican associates say there is no significance whatever in the Maine vote. They declare there was no issue to bring out a large vote now, and that the republicans lost only proportionately in the decreased vote. In 1880, they say, the state went democratic in the September election, yet, at the subsequent November election General Garfield carried it by the usual republican majority.

There is some alarm in official republican circles over the news from Cincinnati, that it is proposed to have Blaine speak with Foraker at a Music Hall meeting, and contrast the crowd and enthusiasm with the recent administration meeting at Woodsdale Island park, which is denominated here a failure. While large and enthusiastic meetings are hoped for everywhere, the animus behind the proposed Blaine-Foraker meeting is not approved, on the ground that it would only tend to promote differences that every one is now trying to smother.

The renomination of Judge Morris by the democrats of Connecticut causes the public eye to revert again to that state. Though having a plurality of the votes two years ago, he, through the law in Connecticut requiring a majority of all the votes cast, was not enabled to take his seat, and the old governor, Bulkeley, who was not voted for at all, still holds over. This question will be one of the issues.

The officers of both committees recall the fact that the democratic plurality in Connecticut in 1888 was but a fraction over 300. Of course, Connecticut is debatable ground, and certainly it will be one of the whirlpools of political action, and ex-Governor Tom Walter will be called upon to outdo all former brilliant achievements for the democrats, while the republicans will point to the great increase in the price of Connecticut tobacco as one of the beneficial results of the McKinley bill.

Ex-Governor James E. Campbell and family, who have been at the Fifth Avenue hotel, have left for Ohio.

THE IRON HALL.

Rapid Progress Made by the Convention Engaged in Its Reorganization.

Indianapolis, Sept. 15.—Rapid progress was made by the convention of Iron Hallers engaged in reorganizing the order. Samuel E. Towne, of Philadelphia, was elected supreme justice; H. L. Jones, of Boston, supreme vice justice; W. F. Landers, of Indianapolis, supreme accountant; and Albert Cobb, of Indianapolis, supreme cashier. Revised laws for the order were adopted, which greatly curtail the powers of the supreme officers, particularly in regard to their control of the order's funds. The next move will be to try to take the order's funds out of the hands of the receiver. A special committee held a conference with Judge Taylor, of the superior court, looking to that end this afternoon, but got little encouragement.

HAD NOT HEARD IT.

Sacramento, Cal. Sept. 15.—Referring to the London dispatch stating that Monsignor Capel, now living at Arno, this county, would be recalled to take his former high position in the Catholic church in England, Monsignor Capel said yesterday that he had not been communicated with on the subject and thought there was no foundation for the report.

COMIC OPERA TO-MORROW

The Ohio Yacht Club Going to the Wonderland.

Geo. W. Monroe in Bridget's Baby at the People's Next Week—Lost in New York.

"Yes, indeed," said Mr. Roland G. Pray, who represents Aunt Bridget's Baby, to a Bee this morning. "We shall surely have the pleasure of playing at the People's theater all next week with usual matinees."

"Is there any plot to the Baby?"

"Why, certainly there is. It is something of this order: Capt. Asteroid, a very wealthy sea captain, proposes an ocean voyage on his yacht, and induces Aunt Bridget (Geo. W. Moore) and a bevy of young maidens to join him. He also has his two nephews to assist him, besides his gallant crew. While the voyage is in progress the captain endeavors to bring about a marriage between his two nephews and two young maidens, and as a side inducement offers to leave a fortune to the first who is accepted. This is all there is to the plot, but it serves its purpose in giving the company a chance for coming on the stage and appearing in some exceedingly pretty costumes. Geo. W. Moore, who plays the central figure, Aunt Bridget, an Irish woman of wealth, ambitious for knowledge, has already made the character a familiar one to all theater goers. Miss Nellie Rosebud as Splinters is very graceful and lively on her feet and fills the requirements of her part very nicely. Mr. Louis Foy,( as the Bosun plays the part admirably, and his deep bass voice is heard to great advantage. Thos. J. Ryan and Miss Lottie Hyde are very clever in their respective parts, and their specialties are immense, especially Mr. Ryan in his quiet monologue and dance."

The O. Y. C. Invited.

Mr. James Sortore, who had charge of the construction of the Wonderland theater, made many friends in Toledo. Mr Sortore has built numerous theaters in various parts of the country. He will probably go from here to Dayton, where he will put up a theater. Mr. and Mrs. Sortore were guests at the O. Y. C. summer home on several occasions, and in return for courtesies shown him, he has invited the members of the O. Y. C. to form a theater party and attend the Wonderland Friday evening. The members of the club will meet at the club house at 8:30 p. m. A good time is expected.

A Good Show.

There are 17 first-class artists at the Wonderland this week, including Tony Ryan, the mad musician and champion burlesque xylophone player of the world; Miss Maud Revelle, in her original songs and dances; Mr. Fred Morphet, assisted by Mrs. Fred Morphet, in Kellar's latest effort, Oh, a new startling mystery; Jas. J. Morton, in his original specialty, Pickings from Puck; Lowell Brothers, in their double contortion act; the talented Fitzgibbon family, in their musical comedy, entitled Merry Moments, introducing songs, duets, trios xylophone, fife and drum, solos and military marches; F. Baska, the Japanese artist; Herr Strasburger and his educated monkeys; Jas. Wilson, the human balloon; Prince Wolffe, the Hungarian pianist, and Clio.

The Opera Company.

The Katherine Germaine Opera company will appear at Wheeler's to-morrow evening in Amorita and Saturday evening in Said Pasha. The Detroit papers speak highly of the star and the company. Miss Germaine is said to be quite young, very handsome and talented. She will be a surprise to Toledoans.

Lost in New York.

The great scenic play, Lost in New York, is drawing large audiences to the People's this week. The East river scene is the feature of the show. Steam yachts and boats shoot across the stage at full speed on real water, real steam, real everything. It raises the audience out of their seats.

GOLD FROM HEAVEN.

A Meteor Heavily Charged With the Precious Metal Found in Idaho.

On the night of August 20 the upper end of the Bruneau valley, Owyhee county, Idaho trritory, says a corrspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, was made light as day by the fiery glow of a large meteor that shot earthward out of the southwestern heavens. Jack Ronald, who witnessed the flight of the aerolite, said it appeared as large as an ordinary box car, and that as it slanted downward it emitted alternately a deep red and a dazzling white light.

He coud hear a humming noise as the heavenly firebrand dropped through the air, and occasionally there was a sound as of the distant explosion of small firecrackers. He saw the meteor pass down behind the dark outline of a high hill, and a few seconds later he heard a sharp and resonant explosion. Within the next few moments Ronald saw six smaller aerolites shoot through space, but he could not tell whether any of them struck the earth. After the fall of the big meteor the air was charged with electricity, which so affected Ronald's horses that they became sick, staggered and fell down, vomiting and snorting. Next morning Ronald made search for the aerolite, but he was unable to find a trace of it.

Another man who witnessed the phenomenon was Orley Adams, a placer miner. On Tuesday he, too, commenced a search for the fiery visitor, and after a few hours his search was rewarded by the discovery of a meteoric stone, weighing probably 400 pounds, which had struck a sand bank on the margin of the creek, and had then recochetted 90 feet to a bluff of clay, where it had lodged. Adams, after considerable effort, chipped off a piece of the stone, and now has it in his possession in this city. It has the appearance of half smelted iron ore, but Adams declares that an assayer has ussured him that the stone is rich in gold.

Adams, who is a reputable man, says he is sure he has found the aerolite that was seen by Ronald and himself. He declares that he was not over 1,000 yards distant from the meteor when it struck the earth, and that he felt the heat and electric atmosphere which surrounded the incandescent bolt. When he arose next morning and started to search for the fallen star, as he termed it, he found stumps and bowlders sprinkled with fine sand, and correctly conjecturing that the meteor must have landed in or near the creek, he proceeded to the stream and soon discovered what he sought. He will haul the stone to Denver, being unwilling to part with it for scientific purposes. He thinks the meteor, which is extremely heavy, is more than half gold.

TERRIBLE FALL.

Van Wert, O., Sept. 15.—John Hawkey, a contractor, fell from the top of a brick building in Ohio City to the ground, a distance of 50 feet. In his descent he struck the roof of a shed and went through it like a shot. He is still living and will probably recover entirely.

ASPIRATION.

The rarest of honeysuckle is on the hedgetop high,
The reddest of rose-red apples swings on the good tree's crest;
The gladdest of songs and singers are lost in the heart of the sky,
Hark to the lark and his anthem, soaring away from the nest,
Go higher and higher and higher, the highest is ever the best!

Green are the fields of the earth, holy and sweet her joys;
Take and taste, and be glad—as fruit and blossom and bird,
But still as an exile, soul!; then hey! with a singing voice,
For the stars and sun and sweet heaven, whose ultimate height is the Lord!
Ripe, lovely, and glad you shall grow, in the light of his face and his word.

HE SOUGHT DEATH.

Defeated at an Election, He Did Not Want to Live.

Loudonville, O., Sept. 15.—Fred Smith, aged 50, a prominent and well-known citizen, committed suicide by drowning in Blackford creek.

He was defeated in the recent election for justice of the peace, which unbalanced his mind to the extent of taking his life.

He once ran for county auditor on the democratic ticket and was universally known as the "Little Napoleon of Ashland county."

He leaves a wife and five children. Quite a number of valuable papers, such as notes, bank drafts, etc., were found scattered about presumably for the purpose of being destroyed just before the suicide. He has held the office of justice of the peace here for 18 years.

IN A CHECK SUIT.

Some Trials of the Released Convict.

What the American Jean Valjean Undergoes—Constantly Shadowed by Sleuths and Answering Awkward Questions

Victor Hugo, in "Les Miserables," drew a moving picture of the miseries of the ex-convict, Jean Valjean, turned out of the galleys of Toulon, in name a free man, prayed to go back to the bench and oar rather than endure the miseries heaped on him by the fatal yellow-passport. It served to brand him "convict" as effectually as the fleur-de-lys France stamped upon the shoulders of her criminals. Not half so bad is the lot of the convict released from an American prison, but he carries the insignia of the past disgrace in full view. In place of the yellow passport there is the ex-convict's checked "discharge suit."

When a convict is released he is given one of these suits, of a grayish-brown crossed by darker brown checks. At first glance the suit seems to be an ordinary one. Once seen, however, the discharge suit is never forgotten. Once its meaning is pointed out, the likeness to the conventional prison garb becomes striking. Every officer of the law recognizes at a glance this uniform of the unleashed, which is the same in every state in the Union The men are expected to wear these suits for six months after their release. If a convict lately let out is seen in ordinary garb and recognized, he is liable to find himself in an awkward position, as the fact of his discarding the uniform means, to the detective, that he has a purpose in doing so that bodes no good.

A curious incident occurred the other day at the Union depot. Three men stood on the platform waiting for a train. Two of them, both stout, thick-set, determined-looking men, carried small grips. The third stood listlessly in the middle, looking vacantly out into space, with his hands clasped in front of him. His wrists were hidden by his cuffs, but an occasional movement revealed a pair of bright steel bracelets, held together by a short chain. He was handcuffed, but not one man in 10 would have noticed it. A tall, spare man, with a reddish mustache, made his way slowly through the crowd. His eye rested for a moment on the check suit, and then he walked up and tapped the man on the middle of the shoulder. The convict started. He had not felt that touch for years, but he knew well what it meant. All three men turned. The two on the outside glared hard at the newcomer. The man in the check suit held up his fettered hands significantly. Then the tall man took in the situation. He bowed, murmured an apology and walked off.

The convict was Charles A. Vincent, the noted forger, just out of Jefferson City penitentiary. His two companions were New York detectives, taking him back to Sing-Sing to serve out a term of 15 years. The tall man was Detective King, who is stationed at the Union depot.

"What were you going to ask him?" inquired a curious reporter, who had watched the little performance, of the latter.

In reply the detective told him how ex-convicts are treated. Whenever a detective meets one on the street, who he knows has been lately "up the road," he accosts him and puts him through a catechism. Something like the following dialogue often ensues:

"Well, Jimmy, when did you get out?"

"Out of where?"

"Oh, come, now, that ain't right. You're on."

Generally the fellow caves and says he has been out a day or two.

"What was you up for this time?"

If the "ex-con." thinks he's smart, he will most likely reply: "Assault to kill."

This is considered the least offense for which a man can be sent to the penitentiary, and not half the disgrace attaches to it as to robbery or burglary. The detective doubts the truth of the reply, and says:

"Let's see your papers."

"I lost 'em."

"Oh, you lost 'em, did you? Well, let's go up and see if the chief can't find 'em for you."

This mild suggestion generally has the desired effect, and the "suspect" produces the documents. The sleuth looks them over, and nine times out of ten finds the fellow has been up for robbery. If he is from another part of the state and there is nothing suspicious about him, he is then allowed to depart. If he lives in St. Louis he is probably requested to saunter up and see the chief, "Just for the sake of old times." All this is done so quietly you would think they were simply two men talking about buying a lot or some other thing.

Chief Desmond, when he gets a little leisure, examines his "caller" about himself and others. Often ex-convicts, to gain the favor of the detectives, give away valuable information that they have obtained from fellow crooks, either in or out of limbo. Sometimes it is a burglary to be committed, or maybe it is a plot for a jail delivery. If he is "all right" he is let go, but he is watched as long as he is in the city.

"It is not true that we hound a man who has once been in the penitentiary or workhouse," said Chief Desmond, in speaking on the subject. "We always give him a chance to lead an honest life, and many of them do it. It is mighty hard, though, so when a crime is committed, we generally begin to look around for stray 'old timers,' and see what they are about.

"There is one defect in the present system of co-operation between prisons and detectives," he continued, "and that is that the officials of the former do not notify us when releases are to occur. We have to keep the record of each man ourselves, and if he is pardoned or his sentence commuted, find it out for ourselves, which is a very hard thing to do in every case."

AFTER A SQUIRREL.

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 15.—John Utterback, of Sandborn, this county, last night climbed a tree after a squirrel. He fell 60 feet and was instantly killed.

To Avoid Contagious Diseases.

It is of the utmost importance to strengthen the body. A healthy body will much sooner withstand the ravages of contagious diseases, cholera, la grippe, etc., than a weak frame. The genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract is acknowledged in this respect to be the best tonic beverage and is especially recommended for invalids, where a delicate yet strengthening tonic is necessary to build up a debilitated constitution. One dozen bottles of Johann Hoff's Malt Extract are equal in nutritive and tonic qualities to one cask of ale or porter, without being intoxicating. It is beneficial alike for man, woman or child.

Prof. Prosper De Pietra Santa, of Paris, says: "As a large number of patients lack the necessary power to digest solid food, and would through the use of stimulants be merely excited and weakened, therefore I regard it of immense value to the practitioner to bring to his aid a nutritious tonic and remedy like the Johann Hoff's Malt Extract, which will act not only as a tonic, but as a nutrient as well, and which is less exciting than wine as a stimulant."

Be sure to obtain the genuine, which has the signature of "Johann Hoff" on the neck of every bottle.

OF PROFOUND INTEREST.

Something Which Startled Our City.

Right at Home in Our Midst, Where We Know All the Parties.

What is More the Parties Stand Ready and Willing to Tell All About It.

(From the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle)

The name of Dan Rice of 755 Plymouth avenue, Rochester, N. Y., is well known throughout the country. His wife, while enjoying a less wide fame, is the favorite of a large circle of friends and acquaintances, who became very much alarmed at the condition of serious ill health in which Mrs. Rice has been for some time past. She grew terribly nervous, weak and prostrated, frequently dropping upon the floor unconscious, until all were in despair of ever seeing her in health again.

Of late, however, there has been a great change in her condition. Where before she was so terribly run down in health and strength as to make life a burden, she is now strong, healthy, vigorous, and enjoys life thoroughly again.

Her acquaintances are not only surprised and pleased, but greatly mystified as to the cause of so sudden a return to health, when, as everybody knew, she had been so very low and prostrated.

To a friend, however, she explained the secret of her sudden restoration to health.

"I had a heart and nerve trouble of long standing. I had fainting spells, sometimes as many as nine or ten in a day. The neighbors frequently found me unconscious. I could not sleep, many times I never went to sleep at night.

"I had a great deal of pain in my side and stomach, and I could not sleep on my left side at all. I had an attack of numbness in my right side which made it difficult for me to speak or swallow.

"I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and when I had taken two bottles the numbness had left me and I have not fainted but four or five times in the last six months, and I have not had any fainting spells for two months. I can now sleep and rest well.

"My friends are more than surprised at my improved health."

Her friend and neighbor, Mrs. A. Borne of 15 Brook avenue, Rochester, had often found Mrs. Rice unconscious in these terrible numb and fainting spells before she took Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and is delighted, as well she may be, with the effects of this wonderful medicine.

We have for years advertised this remarkable remedy in our columns, and our readers can readily turn to such advertisements in almost any issue of our paper. We know of a great many similar cures effected by this deservedly popular medicine—cures from nervousness, weakness and exhaustion, insomnia, malaria, poor blood, dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, kidney and liver complaints, constipation and the weakness of general debility. Many of us are in a weakened and nervous state, lacking our oldtime strength and vigor. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the very best thing to take to tone up the system and restore our strength. Most everyone needs a medicine to strengthen the nerves, invigorate the blood and start up the action of the liver and kidneys, and this is the greatest and best of all remedies. It is purely vegetable, too, and perfectly harmless. All druggists keep it at $1.00 per bottle.

We assure sufferers from disease that they cannot do better than to use this really wonderful medicine.

Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th street, New York, its discoverer, is a specialist in the cure of nervous and long-standing diseases, who has the largest practice of any physician in the world, and can be consulted personally, or by letter free of charge. Call or write him about your case, or send for a symptom blank to fill out, and a letter, fully explaining your disease, giving valuable advice, etc., will be returned without charge.

This remedy, being the prescription and discovery of this great physician, is not a patent medicine, but on the contrary is a remedy which all doctors recommend and indorse because they know it will cure.

THE W. F. M. S. ANNUAL

Convention at Prairie Depot—Good Reports Submitted—Officers Elected.

The W. F. M. S. annual convention of the Methodist Episcopal church of the Toledo district met in its ninth session at Prairie Depot, Tuesday, at 2 p. m., and contiued until Wednesday noon. A stormy day greeted the convention, hindering delegates from a good part of the district, yet some twenty delegates were present at the opening session from eight auxiliaries.

Mrs. S. W. Flower, the district secretary, in whose charge the woman's work is placed, was present, and Mrs. P. P. Pope, president of the annual meeting, presided.

Mrs. George F. Hirth, of St. John's, Toledo, had charge of a charming young ladies' hour Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Wilson, from Defiane, a young lady who has traveled much and noticed well as she has gone abroad, gave a fine description of the Japanese customs and people, showing the work wrought among them by the missionary teachers.

Miss Della Boyer, of Broadway, spoke without paper, of the effects of the Christian religion upon the women of heathen lands. The talk suggested what American women ought to do for the wide, wide world.

Miss C. Ransom gave a paper upon sights she had seen in Turkish lands, in Christian and Mohammedan quarters, in Palestine, dwelling largely upon Jerusalem, Hebron, Bethany, Bethlehem, etc.; Constantinople with its mission educational institutions, Roberts college and the Woman's college there. The real counsellors of the sultan are many of them graduates of Roberts missionary college in Constantinople.

Rev. R. W. Munson, Malaysia, occupied the evening hour, assisted by Mrs. Munson, who gave also an afternoon address.

Reports showed that the work of the year had been the best in the history of the society, over $800 having been raised for their cause.

Officers for the coming year were selected as follows:

District secretary—Mrs. S. W. Flower.

President of the annual meeting—Mrs. P. P. Pope.

A CHOLERA CURE.

To the Editor: Here is a cholera cure that was successfully used during the cholera years of 1832-3:

Take sweet gum bark, one half pound; persimmon bark, one-half pound; dewberry brier root one-half pound; pulverize the above, then put into two gallons of water, then boil to six quarts. Strain and put one-half pint of this liquid into one quart best French brandy. Then add two ounces essence of peppermint, one ounce laudunum, one-half ounce oil of cinnamon, one pound of loaf sugar, two ounces cloves, one of garden pepper, one of gum myrrh, one-half ounce gum kino, three gall nuts well pulverized. Put into bottle and in two days it will be fit for use.

Dose for an adult, one tablespoonful every two hours and in extreme cases of vomiting more frequent. For a child dose according to age.

This formula is for a large quantity. This recipe has been used in our family for the last 40 years, for bowel trouble. Thinking it might benefit others, contribute it to the readers of the Bee.

Trust This Order Will Not Reach Toledo.

The gas company last night resolved to discontinue furnishing fuel for all cooking stoves after October 15th. The condition of the gas supply, and the fact that the factories must be furnished fuel whether or no, makes this move necessary, however "tough" it may seem on mankind to hustle in the early morning, with frost clinging to the lamberquin of his nocturnal robe, and kindle the kitchen fire. It will will surely come to coal for all fuel purposes, sometime in the near future, and this move on the part of the gas company to bring us up to it sort of gradual like, may be an act of kindness in disguise.—Bowling Green Sentinel.

The Health Department.

There is nothing much new in the health department to-day, but no one can tell what to-morrow may bring. Vessels are being inspected as they reach the docks. Marine Surgeon Fisher had orders at first to vaccinate all the sailors against smallpox. To-day he received notice to cease so doing. The owner of the two-story brick rookeries at the corner of Perry and St. Clair streets does not seem pleased with the idea of tearing down the buildings, and will perhaps fight the matter in the courts. The health department is bound that they shall come down. Some of the inmates have been moving out, and like the poor of London who, when they sit on the ground at Hyde Park, they leave a stain on the grass, so have they seemingly done in Toledo, for wherever these tenants have landed in their migratory flights, complaints have come to the health office requesting their removal.

Medical College Opening.

The winter session of the Toledo Medical college opened yesterday, with a large attendance of students and friends present.

The features of the day were the speeches of Judge Austin, and the college dean, Dr. Pooley. Judge Austin touched on the recent troubles, but said that the large number of new students evidenced the fact that the college was still popular, and prophesied that the new year will be the best.

Dr. Pooley was enthusiastically applauded, when he appeared upon the platform, and his eloquent address received appreciative attention.

Everything points to a successful year, and the friends and patrons of the college are confident that Dr. Pooley was right when he said that the day was not far distant when the name and fame of Toledo's medical college would be known all over the civilized world.

Blind Boone's Concert at St. Paul's.

A large audience was charmed last evening at St. Paul's M. E. church with the musical abilities of Blind Boone. Boone is an intelligent representative of his race and well educated. He is able to play any musical composition on the piano, demonstrating this fact last night by Giving Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodie, No. 6; Schubert's Serenade, by the same author; Gottschalk's "Lost Hope" and Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata.

Blind Boone gave several of his own compositions, the most wonderfully effective being his Marshfield Tornado. Nature only produces one such prodigy in a century. The program was varied by several plantation songs sung by Miss Stella May, whose well trained voice rendered the negro melodies in a charming style. To miss hearing Blind Boone is to miss a treat of a lifetime.

This evening Blind Boone will be at the Third Presbyterian church on Broadway, and on Friday evening at the Second Congregational church.

In Labor Circles.

Carpenter's union, No. 25, met last evening and transacted routine and special business.

A special meeting will be held by this union Sunday afternoon, September 25, to vote on the amendments to the constitution submitted by the St. Louis convention.

Joseph P. Errick was installed as trustee.

The meeting adjourned at a late hour.

Her survivors are her sisters, Mrs. John Cummings, Mrs. John Berdan and Mrs. Chaddock, of Muskegon, and Mr. William Sinclaire, of Baltimore. The funeral will occur to-morrow. Services will be held at the house and at St. Francis De Sales church.

Voting will be done at the following places:

The fire commissioners met yesterday afternoon and transacted important business.

A new rule was adopted, the terms of which give a six-days' vacation annually for the members of the department in addition to the regular day off, provided the member has been a year in service and not suspended within a year prior to the time of his vacation.

HEARING WITHOUT EAR DRUMS

No Trouble About It, But on the Whole It is Better to Have Them.

"Don't speak so loud," said a pretty young woman to a Washington Star writer, adding by way of explanation, "I have no ear drums, you know."

"No ear drums!"

"No; I lost them several years ago."

"From a shock or concussion?"

"Not at all. I was troubled with a catarrhal affection, a consequence of which was the formation of abcesses that destroyed the drums of my ears."

"But I did not know that a person could hear without ear drums."

"On the contrary, I can hear considerably better than other people, because I hear with the exposed auditory nerve instead of through the medium of the drum. For instance it often occurs that I will hear a band of music coming up the street several minutes before anybody else does."

"And you can hear voices better also?"

"Decidedly. If you were to stand over at the other end of this room and whisper articulately I could hear what you said without any difficulty. It is not an advantage, but rather distressing on occasions. When a number of people are talking together in my presence I cannot help hearing what every one of them says, whereas you would be able to confine your attention to the remarks of one individual. When a person speaks at all loudly it hurts me. As a rule, I avoid riding on horse cars because the rumble makes the tears run down my cheeks. In one respect I think my misfortune is an advantage, for I believe that I enjoy music more than others do."

"So the loss of the ear drum actually renders the sense of hearing more accurate?"

"Undoubtedly it does, so long as the parts are uninjured, but their destruction exposes the delicate mechanism of the ear, which it is their chief purpose to protect. Accordingly my auditory apparatus is constantly in danger of trouble, which might at any time render me totally deaf. Besides, any internal ulceration in the passages would be very apt to pierce the delicate wall of bone which separates them from the brain, and that would cause death. That is how Roscoe Conkling died, though very few people knew it, the cold that brought on the trouble having been caught in the great blizzard."

We have never before shown so vast a variety of Cloaks and Jackets as this season. NEUHAUSEL BROS.

LATE MARKETS.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 441,701 bus., and at five other western points 864,985 bus. On the corresponding Thursday in 1891 the receipts at same points were 950,730 bus., including 512,767 bus. northwest wheat, leaving 437,963 bus. as the movement from the five other points compared with 864,985 bus to-day.

Export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were wheat 405,824 bus., and flour to an aggregate of 560,000 bus.

English markets are steady and quiet for wheat and firm for corn.

The frost agitators have lost their grip and the campaign is over for a time, and probably for ten days. We will now prepare for warm weather, as it is coming to us and will not be unusual. "So ends earthly glory" in the frost damage line, and with its departure goes a good hunk off the price of it, and of wheat. For the former dispensation we rejoice and the latter we deeply regret, but taking demand and supply into consideration it cannote be proved by us that it in this year of our Lord 1892. It is not the inevitable, and no man or set of men are responsible for it except the producers, who have pushed their suprlus on the market with unprecedented rapidity and have frightened dealers all around the world.

The government report of exports, including from the movement in July and August this year equals 32,535,554 bu., compared with corresponding two months in 1891, 38,488,619 bu. The corn exports for the two months are 4,555,188 bu. and in 1891, 4,258,425 bu.

Winter wheat receipts are decreasing, and while the northwest movement is increasing it does not improve in the same ratio as the decrease in winter. And yet the aggregate is much above the corresponding Thursday in 1891. With only moderate outward movement at the seaboard we shall again accumulate wheat largely this week, but it is very cheap and why capital is not induced to take it up and hold it, passes our under standing.

The grain markets have been sick today and have made lower prices, but at the decline there is no evidence of improved confidence and support of the markets by strong dealers.

Wheat had declined at Chicago about 3-4c for December when the steamer Bohemia was announced at the seaboard with 97 cases of cholera, and the market broke 5-8c in a very few minutes. Wheat and corn close at the lowest points of the day.

Foreign markets close without significant change.

In New York October wheat closed at 78 3-4, a loss of 3-4; December at 81 7-8, a loss of 7-8; October corn at 55 1-8, a loss of 7-8; October oats at 38, a loss of 5-8.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 73, a loss of 7-8; December at 75 1-8—was 75—a loss of 1 1-8; September corn at 47 1-8, a loss of 1c; October at 47 3-4; a loss of 3-8.

In Toledo the business in wheat futures has been a limited one, without much interest in the deal on either side. Prices have slowly declined until another cholera steamer was announced, when there was a prompt decline of 3-8c to 1-2c. We close at a loss of about 1c on September and October, 3-4c on December and 3-4c on May. On the call December sold at 78c and May at 83 1-8c. On the regular board September sold at 75 1-2c and closed at 75c; October at 75 3-4c and closed at 75 1-4c; December at 78c and closed at 77 1-2c; May at 83c and closed at 82 3-4c.

Cash wheat was in moderate demand only. No. 2 soft sold to a fair extent at 75 1-2c and closed at 75c, a loss of 1c; No. 3 soft at 68c to 67 3-4c, and at close 67 1-2c was the market. December sold at 71 1-4c. On the call October sold at 67 3-4c and December at 71c. No. 4 soft at 61c; rejected No. 1 at 65c to 66c; No. 2 at 50c to 51c.

Corn—No. 2 at 48 1-2c; No. 3 at 47 1-2c.

Oats—No. 2 at 33c; No. 3 white at 33c.

Clover seed was fairly active and a shade easier. Prime for cash at $6.00; October at $5.95; to $6.00, closing at $5.75; November at $6.00, closing at $5.95; December at $6.10; No. 2 at $5.77 1-2 to $5.80.

Close in New York.

New York, Sept. 15.—Money 3@4 per cent. Exchange quiet and easier; posted rates, $4.87@4.88 1-2; actual rates, $4.86 1-4 for 60 days, and $4.87@4.87 3-4 for demand.

Governments, quiet; currency 6s, 107 bid; 4s coup., 115 bid; extended 2s, registered, 100 bid.

The stock market was unusually active this morning. The market opened generally 1-8 to 1 per cent. lower under heavy selling. Sugar trust was extremely weak and fell from 108 1-8 to 106 3-4. The market was irregular throughout the morning and at intervals the selling which characterized the opening was renewed.

At noon prices were in most cases 1-8 to 2 per cent. lower than last night's closing. At this writing the market is nervous with considerable selling. The unloading this morning is attributable solely to the cholera scare.

Flour moderately active; city mill extra, $4.25@4.35 for West Indies; fine, $1.65@2.10; superfine, $1.70@2.20.

Wheat opened weak and continued weak throughout, declining 1-2c by noon; No. 2 red winter, cash, 78 1-2c; September, 78c; October, 79 1-8c; November, 80 5-8c.

Corn opened weak and declined 1c by noon; No. 2 mixed, cash, and November, 56c; September, 55c; October, 55 1-4c.

Oats opened weak and declined 1-4c by noon; No. 2 mixed, cash, 38c; September, 37 3-4c; October, 38 1-4c.

Rye dull; 64@68c.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Facts vs. Fiction.

To the Editor: "We wage our peaceful war for God and home and native land," therefore beer on the fair ground is a question of interest to us, made especially so by notices in our daily papers that there was to be none. Mr. McCrane, also Mr. McLaren, asserted to members of our organization on the grounds, that they had sold no beer privileges; yet beer was sold or given away back of where the pool selling was conducted under the grand stand, accessible from the race course or through the end of the grand stand to the grounds, by an aperture which was hidden from the eyes of unthirsty mortals, by a side show and numerous boxes piled up.

Will these Christian(?) managers of the fair rise up and explain how they could make these assertions in the face of facts?

LEGAL TANGLES.

Fire Islanders to Continue the Fight to Save Their Little Sea Home.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 15.—On the return this morning before Judge Barnard enjoining the landing of the Normannia's passengers at Fire island an order was made denying without costs the motion to make the injunction permanent on the ground, as stated in the order, that the court in general term had vacated the preliminary injunction.

The general term order which vacated generally Judge Barnard's special term injunction was this morning re-settled so as to show on its face that the injunction was vacated because it restrained a public officer in the performance of his duty and that therefore a judge sitting in special term was without jurisdiction.

It is expected that the town board of Islip will carry the matter to the court of appeals in order to have the question determined by the final tribunal as to whether Fire island can be made a permanent quarantine station. It will take more than a month to obtain a decision from the court of appeals.

The democrats can elect a congressman in the Ninth district. Who is he?

A strike among the electric light linemen in Detroit left the towers and the city in darkness this week. Even the lightning, it seems, is not free from human coercive power.

Scott Haven, in the Youghiogheny valley, Pennsylvania, is suffering with an epidemic of diphtheria which is more fatal in its ravages than cholera. Already forty deaths have occurred. Five deaths are reported in one family.

The democratic primaries are being held to-night to select delegates to the county convention, which will meet on Saturday in Druid Hall. The polls will be open until eight o'clock. All democrats should attend the primaries.

Grave fears were expressed that the cholera scare would cause a serious trade depression in New York. The monetary journals speak hopefully of the present situation and do not apprehend further trouble from that cause.

Not to become rusty in enterprise the New York Herald sent a correspondent to Paris to become inoculated by Pasteur with the cholera germ. The experiment is said to have been successful and the Herald prints the story as wired by its professional patient.

"A short campaign and a sharp one" is the slogan of the Baltimore Sun, and that spirit will infuse and enthuse democrats generally. The people are with Cleveland in this fight against high taxes and centralized ideas and will push the campaign the next six weeks to certain democratic victory.

There is cause for democratic congratulation in the information that the most pronounced government organs in Canada are outspoken in favor of Harrison's re-election. It is natural that the policy on each side that would build up a high wall of non-intercourse between, should join issue in advancing their common cause. The republicans are very welcome to such Canadian support.

The sympathy and the prayers of the American people are with the family of the President in the hour of their distress. The health of Mrs. Harrison, none too good the past year or more, is now so bad that grave fears are entertained of her recovery. Campaign issues and the contention of politics are all forgotten at such a time, and the nation awaits the news from Loon Lake with grave apprehension.

The promptness with which Gov. Flower acted in obtaining quarantine shelter on Fire Island for the passengers of incoming steamers is favorably commented upon by the papers of New York. The power of the courts was invoked to prevent the landing, but the Governor was firm and the injunction was removed. Gov. Flower has proved himself a man of nerve and good executive ability.

The Australian ballot law was used in Maine and Arkansas the first time at the September elections this year. In Arkansas the democratic vote largely increased and in Maine the republican vote fell off heavily. Wherever the Australian ballot is given a fair trial the cause of democracy is bettered. Republicans cannot pursue their favorite methods, so peculiar to Dorsey and Dudley, under the Australian system.

On August 21 there were 83 cases of cholera and 22 deaths in Hamburg. The next day the number of cases increased to 200 and the deaths to 70. From that day until September 10 the scourge raged with great virulence. In the twenty-one days the total number of cases was 13,248 and the total number of deaths 5,805. It is a fearful record of decimation, and the wonder is that from the open port of Hamburg the scourge has not spread all over the world. It is nothing less than crime to send vessels away from that port with infection sure to be on shipboard. The steamship companies have a fearful responsibility in the almost certain spread of the disease.

That ever hopeful republican the Inter Ocean finds a half column of encouragement from the returns of the Maine election. As the figures show a large republican loss in a state that has uniformly given majorities adverse to democracy for more than thirty years, the Inter Ocean is ridiculous in the exuberance of its joy. Such victories transferred to doubtful states would make the little Grandson wonder "where he is at."

THE PEARY EXPEDITION.

The return of Lieut. Peary's expedition from the long journey northward is hailed with delight by friends, and the reports of the party are highly important and interesting to explorers and scientists. The Lieutenant endeavored to demonstrate that the overland route to the north of Greenland was the proper way to push toward the North Pole. Although suffering the rigors of the extreme climate the commander and his brave wife and their companions went farther north than any other explorers. They found vegetation and elks, deer, walrus, whale and norwhal in abundance. They demonstrated the correctness of the theory that guided the expedition and have left a route open to future explorers who will soon take up the plan and penetrate the northern mystery still farther.

DIANA MAKES THEM BLUSH.

In Madison Square Garden, New York, is a beautiful statue of Diana which is to be loaned to the Columbian Fair for exhibition. Now, who ever saw a real first-class statue of fair Diana, took her in as nature fixed her up, minus a surplusage of clothes? In this country the nude in art is horribly shocking to a large class who prefer to see a woman's legs in public covered with panties. The Madison Square Diana is gotten up according to Hoyle without the assistance of a dressmaker, and the prudish don't like it a little bit, and do not purpose permitting her exposure to the gaze of the wild and woolly west and the rest of the world. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Chicago has taken the initiative in protestation. The good girls kick vigorously and insist that Diana shall put her clothes on and cover her neck to her ears or she shall not come to Chicago. That settles it and the Old Girl will probably have to nudely endure the rigors of the Eastern climate and let the bad boys of Gotham gaze upon her symmetrical proportions awhile longer. Nature adorned with a few yards of calico seems to be preferred in Chicago.

FIGURING ON RESULTS.

The campaign work of Tammany has progressed far enough to indicate the result of the coming election in the metropolis. The machinery of the canvass was actively set in motion three weeks ago and returns are now coming in. The most shrewd writers are enthusiastic over the figures which they know are accurate. Tammany deals only with the democratic vote. It is a large army to muster and when each soldier of the legion is inspected and accounted for the commanders know what to expect, and are never disappointed. There is not another such a disciplined political body in the world. The thousands of members are known and reached, to the last man. Tammany never bothers itself with making proselytes. It is not working with the mugwumps or the republicans this year. It is after the democratic vote, and, judging from the work of the leaders, it purposes having every voter registered and every vote in the ballot box.

Careful estimates of the vote of the city are now given and Tammany chiefs claim with confidence that Cleveland's majority in New York alone will be 75,000. This may be increased to 80,000 by the republican votes which Mr. Cleveland is sure to receive among the business men of the city. Kings county, which includes Brooklyn, is good for from 15,000 to 20,000 democratic majority. These figures give Cleveland from 80,000 to 100,000 majority below Harlem bridge. The republicans have the larger percentage of votes in the state above the bridge, but have never been able to go to New York with 75,000 majority. It will thus be seen that if the estimates this year shall only be approximately correct the city of New York without the great Long Island democratic majority, will carry the electoral vote for Cleveland and Stevenson.

While forecasting the vote of New York the fact must not be lost sight of that in the rural counties Mr. Cleveland is exceptionally strong this year. Experts in politics admit this without giving reasons for the strong faith in Cleveland that imbues the people on the farms and in villages. They find the same conditions in all parts of the state. If they were to investigate the subject carefully they would soon learn that the ruralists are an intelligent class of citizens, and that the conditions of the country have been closely studied the past four years. The country has not advanced in methods of good government since Grover Cleveland, a New Yorker, was defeated for re-election in 1888, and they, his own state people, are determined that the wrong of '88 shall be corrected in '92. New Yorkers have a state pride in the advancement of their foremost statesman and will see that their thirty-six electoral votes shall be cast for him this year. Democratic prospects daily improve in New York.

SUNDAY THEATERS.

All the Toledo Amusement Places to Open.

The Theatrical Managers Are Going to Try a Hand Just to See How It Will Work.

The experiment of running the theaters at full blast Sundays will be tried in Toledo. Since the Wonderland has been giving Sunday performances the managements of Wheeler's The People's, Dixon's and the Casino have decided to get a finger in the pie. Whether the performances will be stopped by the authorities remains to be seen. There are a great many citizens who are strenuously opposed to Sunday theatrical performances. The Preachers' union will probably take the matter up immediately. Geo. W. Monroe plays Bridget's Baby at the People's Sunday evening next as a starter. Wheeler's will open Sundays as soon as Manager Brady can book attractions.

In Cincinnati and other cities the play houses are open Sundays without molestation, so the matter will be thoroughly tested here.

EXPENSIVE BLAZE.

New York, Sept. 15.—George Meyer's carriage factory, in the rear of 225 and 227 East Thirty-sixth street, was destroyed by fire this morning. The flames extended to Charles Fil's furniture factory, 222 and 224 East Thirty-seventh street, and the furniture factory of F. Vogel & Co., both of which were more or less damaged. The loss is placed at $100,000.

STILL IN DEADLOCK,

And the Key Appears to Have Been Thrown Away.

Delegates to the Ninth District Republican Convention

Have Been in Session for Three Days and the Vote is as at First—How the Fight Proceeds.

The deadlock remains unbroken.

Ashleyites gave assurances last night that Wood would break this morning, but she remains as solid as ever.

For the first time since the convention met the idea prevails inside and out that Ashley cannot be elected if nominated.

Wood and Fulton delegates believe this almost to a man, and there is no question that if the delegates voted for their choice that Hamilton could be nominated on the first ballot.

Ashley's followers in Lucas county stay by him principally for two reasons; first, he, as a knownothing, represents a certain element here, and second, it pays to support him.

This is the secret of Ashley's strength.

Hamilton is being backed by the straightest and squarest element of republicans in Lucas county.

Griffin is supported by men who believe in loyalty to leaders rather than party. He represents the Foraker element in Lucas county, and it is not to be sneezed at, either.

Fulton and Wood are supporting their respective candidates as a matter of local pride rather than political preferences.

The balloting to-day up to noon showed no material change over yesterday.

It looks to-day as if, after all, Ashley would not be nominated.

George Ketcham and Jim Luckey are both dark horses that will be in the race if a break should come.

It is anybody's fight as yet, with the dark horse as first favorite. While the unit rule enforces obedience just now, the delegates are becoming restive, and a sudden flop may be expected at any time.

The Forenoon's Session.

In calling the third day of the convention to order Chairman Howard remarked that he felt that under the circumstances a little prayer would be beneficial. He thereupon introduced Rev. S. D. Hutsinpiller, who prayed for the Divine blessing on the deliberations of the convention.

The chairman said that while he knew that many were anxious to get home, still he felt that a duty devolved upon the delegates and that was to remain in session until the object for which they had been called together had been accomplished.

Lucas county thereupon returned to that seemingly eternal and monotonous grind—the roll call.

It was expected that there would be a break in Wood, but loyal Wood was solid for Lincoln and good for 50 more ballots at least. So said one of her delegates.

The first ballot of the session resulted as follows: Ashley, 64; Hamilton, 32; Griffin, 13; Brigham, 30; Lincoln, 56.

38th ballot—Ashley, 63 3-10; Hamilton, 27 7-10; Griffin, 15; Brigham, 30; Lincoln, 56.

39th ballot—Ashley, 60 7-10; Hamilton, 32 3-10; Griffin, 15; Brigham, 30; Lincoln, 56; Romeis, 1.

Fulton had been in caucus, but there was evidently no change, as is seen from the above vote.

40th ballot—There was a report that Fulton would make a break on this ballot. The result was as foolows: Ashley, 62 7-10; Hamilton, 31 5-10; Griffin, 14 8-10; Brigham, 30; Lincoln, 56.

41st ballot—Ashley, 63 8-10; Hamilton, 29 6-10; Griffin, 15 6-10; Brigham, 30; Lincoln, 56.

42d ballot—Ashley, 63 2-10; Hamilton, 30 1-10; Griffin 13 7-10; Lincoln, 57; Brigham, 30; Geo. H. Ketcham, 1.

On this ballot Lincoln got a vote from Lucas, and the result was received with cheers by the Wood county delegation.

43d ballot—Ashley, 61; Hamilton, 31 1-10; Griffin, 13 9-10; Brigham, 30; Lincoln, 56; Ketcham, 2; Luckey, 1.

A motion was made to take a recess until 2 o'clock.

This was withdrawn in order to give W. H. Tucker an opportunity to introduce the following resolution:

Resolved, That the republicans of the Sixth congressional district learn with deep sorrow of the serious illness of Mrs. Harrison and do hereby extend to the president and his afflicted wife their heartfelt sympathy, with the hope that she may soon be restored to health.

Adjournment was taken until 2 p. m.

At the afternoon session the regular grind of ballots again began, and was still in progress when the Bee went to press.

To Shelve Griffin.

Jim Ashley, jr., made an ineffectual attempt just before adjournment to place Griffin on the shelf.

He urged the Wood county delegates to make a motion dropping the lowest candidate after the next ballot.

"He should have been dropped long ago," Jim said to Judge Nearing, of Wood. "I wonder what in h—l he is holding on for anyway. If I had been low man I'd have dropped out long ago."

"Let Wood county make the motion," Jim continued, "and we will support it."

"We cannot very well make such a motion," the Judge replied, "but I think something should be done to stop this nonsense. Lucas county must settle the fight herself."

Griffin was informed that the Ashleyites were trying to sidetrack him and the statesman was hot.

"They cannot do it," he said. "I've been too long in politics to allow them to do anything like that."

Another of Ashley's tactics was an attempt to have Wood county vote in favor of adjourning sine die and again appealing to the people through the medium of the Baber law.

This didn't work and new schemes are being planned. There is one thing about Ashley's schemes, they are so transparent that the dullest sighted sees through them, and they, therefore, don't go.

How They Vote.

After a thorough canvass of Lucas county's vote the lists herewith given will show how the trio of Lucas county statesmen stand.

There is a change of one or two votes in almost every ballot, and it is hard to tell just where the change comes from. The following is a close call, however, on the situation:

A Conference Proposed and Held.

After the 35th ballot had been announced yesterday afternoon, and there was no change, ex-Senator Geyser, of Fulton, moved that a recess of 10 minutes be taken and that a committee of three from each county be appointed to confer on the feasibility of uniting on some one candidate.

Jim Luckey, of Ottawa, moved an amendment that the candidates be represented by friends in this committee.

Herman Baumbach moved a further amendment that each candidate, instead of each county, be represented by three friends on the committee.

The motion was put and declared carried, although Wood county protested, and for a time refused to go into the conference.

Wood went into caucus, and after some discussion, decided to go into the conference.

The following committees were then appointed:

Lucas—Ashley, J. M. Ashley, J. H. Southard, Herman Baumbach; Hamilton, J. F. Kumler, J. M. Ritchie, C. W. Everett; Griffin, H. E. King, S. A. Hunter, J. B. Battelle.

Ottawa—James B. Luckey, Wm. Kelly, H. A. Aldrich.

Fulton—W. W. Touville, Frank Blair, J. Q. Files.

Wood—J. R. Hankey, J. C. Nearing, O. P. Norris.

After the lapse of the prescribed 10 minutes, and it was found that the committe was not ready to report, the time was extended 10 minutes further.

When the second 10 minutes had expired, W. H. Tucker was appointed a committee of one to locate the committee and report how soon it would get through with the seance.

Mr. Tucker reported that a report would be submitted within 5 minutes and T. P. Brown moved a recess until 7:30.

The motion was hooted down.

The committee finally put in an appearance.

The conclusion arrived at by the committee, as expressed by Harry King, was that the convention adjourn until 10 a. m. to-morrow.

A minority report was submitted to the effect that an adjournment be taken until 8 p. m.

J. T. Thompson moved as an amendment, that the convention adjourn until Sptember 15, 1893.

The roll call of counties was called for.

Lucas of course got into a wrangle over adjournment and proceeded to waste time by calling the roll.

Lucas voted 59 against adjournment to 40 for.

Wood county also called the roll and voted 18 aye and 35 no. The vote was lost.

This announcement was received with cheers, and it was decided to proceed.

On motion of W. H. Tucker both reports were tabled and the convention got down to the old grind.

36th ballot—Ashley, 62 19-28; Hamilton, 36 15-28; Griffin, 13 9-16; Brigham, 27; Lincoln, 54 2-14.

Ottawa broke in the 36th in the interest of Hamilton, giving him 10 votes.

Immediately after the vote to adjourn some one sprang a motion to adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

There were loud cries of "Order, order." The motion was put amid the greatest confusion.

Chairman Howard at this point promptly took the bull by the horns, and on a vive voce vote declared the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Snap Shots.

Fulton went into caucus after the 38th ballot.

What's the matter with Fulton? She's all right.

Charley Ashley was an on-looker this forenoon.

Some of the delegates have paired and gone home.

Rev. P. P. Pope was among the visitors this morning.

The postoffice people are betting 10 to 5 on Ashley.

Col. Everett is the ablest parliamentarian in the convention.

It's the old fight of mind vs. matter,—Brains vs. Boodle.

Joe Ford is as enthusiastic as if he was on the majority side.

Jim Ashley, jr.—"We are here for two days more at least."

Where's Col. Isaac D. Smead in the shuffle for a dark horse?

Jack Carland is the slickest wire puller in the Ashley aggregation.

M. M. Eppstein is a constant attendant, evidently getting pointers.

Harry King is doing good work for Griffin. Harry is a hustler.

The convention was very fortunate in the selection of a chairman.

Herman Baumbach talks more and says less than any delegate present.

Moses Math is the loyalist Hamiltonian of them all. Mose is all right.

Tom Tracy is doing considerable quiet hustling for Griffin on the outside.

John Kumler looks somewhat worried, but he keeps hustling just the same.

There were five Ashley and two Hamilton delegates absent this forenoon.

John Morganthaler—"I am for Hamilton, if I have to stay here a month."

"Lincoln—53 votes." Judge Nearing repeats the words in his dreams, it is said.

T. Nuneviller, one of the delegates from the Sixth, is sick, but remains by Ashley.

Griffin tried his fine Italian hand on Fulton this morning, but without success.

George Holmes came up from Columbus to see the fun, and is working for Ashley.

If Jim Southard does not manage to queer Ashley, then Herman Baumbach will.

Big Jim Ashley, jr., may not have much of a head for politics, but his heart is all right.

Jim Ashley was again urging the advisability of dropping Griffin this forenoon.

A number of Wood county delegates went home last night and returned this morning.

Griffin has got more brain in proportion to the size of his contingent than any of the others.

The dark horse did not trot out yesterday as predicted. Look out for him sometime to-day.

Col. Bonner is too busy looking after the convention to bother about calling out the naval reserve.

Little Ottawa is doing the square thing by all the candidates, although her choice is Hamilton.

Big Jim began the old game of freeze-out yesterday afternoon, but he couldn't do it, ye know.

The unit rule holds both Fulton and Wood in line and nothing else. Its a good rule, sometimes.

Dr. Rorick—"Fulton remains solid until she is in a position to nominate one or other of the candidates."

It costs somebody about $750 a day to board and lodge the delegates alone. Who pays their board bills?

M. P. Brewer has not delivered those votes to Ashley, promised from the Wood county delegation.

A suggestion was made yesterday that the convention adjourn until Lucas county had settled her troubles.

One of the hardest and most untiring workers in Wood county for Lincoln was Van Tassel, of the Tribune.

Judge Wickham, of Norwalk, is on the floor buttonholing delegates. He is a candidate for circuit judge.

Griffin is a politician from the word go, and on a square show down he would have as many votes as the best of them.

'Twould be a good scheme for the convention to adjourn until after election. There's no hope for his candidate now.

It is a heavy task for a man as old as Mr. Howard to preside over such a convention, but the brave old pioneer is equal to the task.

Jim Ashley, sr., held forth at the Boody last evening and entertained numerous delegates from Wood and Fulton. Look out for a break soon.

Several delegates have suggested the nomination of Chairman Howard, but the convention does not yet appear to be ready to act on the suggestion.

Wood and Fulton county tickets are involved in the present fight. If the delegations let loose, it is good bye to the nominees for the county offices.

"Who is that man in the Wood county delegation with that porch out and awful hat?" was a question asked by many. "That's John Wilson," was the reply.

Sherman Lott, the genial secretary of the Lucas county delegation, has now called the roll of Lucas county's 99 delegates 35 times. Sherman's lot is a hard one just now.

Wood county's solidity for Lincoln is something to be admired by everybody. They have a candidate they believe in. Hon. E. W. Poe and J. R. Hankey are among his best supporters.

HENRY S. PRATT

Has Turned His Face Toward Home and Parents

After an Absence of Five Years Abroad, Devoted to Incessant Pursuit of Knowledge.

Hon. Charles Pratt this morning received a letter from his son, Henry S., who has been a student of universities at Leipsic, Geneva and Freiberg, Baden, for five years, announcing that he would sail from London September 9, by the steamer Oregon, for Montreal, Canada, which is due September 18.

The letter was written in London, and stated that he had been in that city since August 23. He said there were a few cases of cholera in London, but that no epidemic prevailed, neither was there any alarm whatever. The letter contained no reference to the disease in Germany.

Mr. Pratt has not been home since he went abroad five years ago. During his absence he has devoted his whole time to study, and has been under the most noted and able professors the world knows. On September 29 he goes to Cambridge to accept a fellowship in Harvard college, to which he was quite recently appointed.

DROWNED IN A CISTERN.

Fostoria, Sept. 15.—(Special)—This morning about 10:30 o'clock the three-year-old son of Christian Cook was missed by his mother and after an extended search was found in the cistern, he having fell in while playing.

He was fished out, but all efforts to revive him were without avail.

It throws o'er man or woman's face.

Last evening, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Fisher, 519 Locust street, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Annie Lee Fisher to Mr. O. K. Marvin. Rev. S. D. Mr. Waldon Laskey acted as best man. The parlors were prettily decorated with yellow and the dining room with white asters. After the ceremony an elegant wedding supper was served. At the bridal table were seated Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Marvin, Rev. Hutsinpiller and wife, Mr. Laskey, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin and Miss Marvin, of Fremont, and Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Last evening, just as bells were chiming 6 o'clock, Miss Grace Hubbard and Mr. George Tuttle were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. W. W. Williams, at the home of the bride's parents, 222 Eleventh street. To the sweet strains of Loenghrin's wedding march, played by Miss Florence Fisk, the bridal party entered the parlor in the following manner: Attendants, Messrs. Blodgett and Bigelow, Mr. Tuttle and best man, Mr. Bellows, of Norwich, Conn., the charming bride, Miss Grace, and bride's-maid, Miss Edith Hubbard. They proceeded to an improvised altar, made of smilax and white roses, where the nuptial knot was tied. The decorations were pink, white and green and were perfect in detail and effect. The bride was a picture of lovliness in a white faille gown with pearl trimmings. She wore a handsome diamond pendant, the gift of the groom, and carried bride's roses. Miss Edith Hubbard was charming in white crepe and carried red roses. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served. Covers were laid for twelve at the bridal table and the artistic decorations consisted of pink and white asters and smilax. Seated at this table were: Mr. and Mrs. George Tuttle, Dr. W. W. Williams, Mrs. Millard, Miss Millard, Miss Hardy, Miss Edith Hubbard, Miss Florence Fisk and Messrs. Bellows, Blodgett, Bigelow and Bellman. The other guests were seated at occasional tables. A very pretty feature was that the gowns of the ladies at the bridal table matched the decorations. A large reception was given during the evening, after which Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle departed for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will be "at home" at 222 Eleventh street. Among the guests from abroad were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Chicago, the Misses Hardy and Millard, of Adrian, Mr. A. L. Tuttle, of Detroit, and Mr. H. O. Tuttle and Miss Fowler, of Holloway, Mich.

TOLEDO INDUSTRIES

Are Flourishing and Improving Every Year.

Two Enterprises Compelled to Double Capacity.

The Lozier Bicycle Company will Erect a Big Building and Increase the Machinery and Operating Forces—The Shepler Paper Mill In It.

Toledo's manufacturing interests are flourishing and growing, and it is welcome news to hear that one or more of the corporations are compelled to increase operating facilities on account of the ever growing business.

Such is the case with two of Toledo's foremost manufacturing enterprises.

The Lozier Manufacturing company has concluded to increase its capacity just double, and steps have been taken to bring about an early consummation of this project. Bacon & Huber have been employed to draft plans for the building and have concentrated their forces to get them out at once.

The new building will be erected on a site adjoining the present plant, which is located on Central avenue on the Consolidated street railroad belt. The structure will be three stories high, 100 feet long and 40 feet wide, and the material will consist of brick and stone.

The present capacity of the plant is 50 bicycles per day, and the new plant will turn out 80 machines per day. To do this more men and machinery will be required. It is expected that the force will be increased from 300 to 400 men, and the company has already contracted for $20,000 worth of new machinery. The building will cost about $15,000, making a total improvement of $35,000.

In conversation with a Bee, Manager Moore said: "Yes, we are going to double up, and that at once. Our business has increased to such an extent that we are simply compelled to make more room. We have concluded to build and just double our present facilities. We expect to be running within the next 60 days in the new place."

G. P. Shepler is erecting a brick factory at Ironville, into which he will move his straw board mill from its present location in West Toledo. The new building is located on the corner of Lie and Front streets on the river front. The structure is 150 feet long and 75 feet wide. New machinery has been purcased, and in about 60 days the plant will be running with increased force.

The Long Distance Telephone Line Reached Toledo

This Morning from the East—To Connect with the Line from Toledo West—It will Soon Be in Operation.

The gang of men who have been pushing the big long distance telephone line on toward Toledo for the past few months reached here this morning from the eastward. The finishing touches will be made and the line will be open next month.

This line from the east connects Toledo with New York, Boston and other eastern cities, and passes through Ohio, striking the following towns: Youngstown, Akron, Cuyahoga Falls, Medina, Wellington, Newark, Fremont, Toledo, Maumee, Delta, Wauseon, Bryan and Edgerton. A line is also being built to connect Toledo with Detroit.

The long distance 'phone will be placed in business places, residences, etc., and by arrangement it can be used for local telephoning as well as long distance. When using a long distance 'phone subscribers will pay for each message according to the distance and length of time.

Night rates will be established at about one-half of the day rate, so that from 6 p. m. to 8 a. m. the expense will be comparatively light.

Besides subscribers' 'phones there will be a number of public stations provided with handsome booths for the convenience of patrons. A Bee will probably be in the Boody house, but the location of the others has not been settled.

The American Telegraph and Telephone company, which is the long distance company, has an office at 710 Madison street. A Bee [illegible] called on [illegible] this morning, on the local 'phone.

"There is considerable trouble talking through the local 'phones on account of the various [illegible], but it can be done away with in the long distance 'phone?"

"In your local telephone system the wires are grounded. That is the circuit is completed through the earth. In the long distance it is different. We have two copper wires in use and a person can hear a whisper from New York to Toledo."

THE FOLK-MOTE BE THE RIVER.

It was up in the morn we rose betimes
From the hall floor hard by the row of limes.

It was but John the Red and I,
And we were the brethren of Gregory.

And Gregory the Wright was one
Of the valiant men beneath the sun

And what he bade us that we did,
For ne'er he kept his counsel hid.

So out we went, and the clattering latch
Woke up the swallows under the thatch.

It was dark in the porch, but our scythes we felt,
And thrust the whetstone under the belt.

Through the cold garden boughs we went
Where the tumbling roses shed their scent.

Then out a-gates and away we strode
O'er the dewy straws on the dusty road.
—William Morris.

OLD MAN ROBERT.

Old Man Robert was the blacksmith. Not the village blacksmith, but the plantation blacksmith. There was another Robert Jones on the plantation, though not related to Old Man Robert, and to distinguish them, "Sr." was added to the latter's name on the ledger. His plantation "entitle" was "Little Robert," and he was often called Old Man Little Robert.

Old Man Robert had been in possession of the plantation smithy long before my connection with the place began, and it was said that he had wasted tons of iron and steel and carloads of coal in his attempts to forge or repair agricultural implements. His forte was "big talk," induced by an inordinate fondness for the bottle, and when his tongue got started, it had, in his own words, to "unreel itself." This conversational propensity had its disastrous side. He would keep one eye on the iron in the fire, and his ears on the end of his tongue—the result being that his work always suffered. While his tongue continued the unreeling process, the iron heated first red, then white, and by the time he was ready to stop talking, the piece of metal had burned to a crisp, so to speak.

But when this happened his only exclamation was. "Dar now"

Pecuniary reward was no object to Old Man Robert. no matter how important was the job to be done, its performance depended entirely upon his mood. I had long before learned his weak point, and knew that the open sesame to his good will was the magic word "dram." He always delivered his work in person, when there was any prospect of getting a dram. Presenting himself at the office door, he would remove his hat and give a profatory cough—then proceed thus: "Marse Willum, I has brung you merself dese plow pints, kase I knowed pintedly you wanted um mighty bad, an' I doesn't like to trus' dese biggity niggers wid white folkses' things. Dar dey am, sah, bright as good dollars. Whar mer dram?"

As I brought out the liquor and poured a full half-pint, Old Man Robert's face would light up with joy.

"Marse Willum," he would say, "dat stuff do look so good dat I ain't gwine drunk it till I make you a toast." Scratching his head and bending over, as if in deep thought, he would repeat for the thousandth time his standing verse, with the following preface: "Well, sah, mer mem'ry is mighty failin' an' I can't always 'member what mer mind want to say, but dis yer is a bran-new one, just made up to de order:

> Big bee he walk all aroun',
> Little bee make all de honey;
> Nigger man he wuk de groun',
> And white man he pocket all de money.

"Yes, sah—ebery cent de money. But nigger don't want no money—leastwise dis nigger don't, kase Old Man Robert like de dram too much fer dat."

Saying which, he raised the glass and closed both eyes, but just as it reached his lips he suddenly opened his eyes, and holding the liquor off at arm's length, he broke into a long laugh. "Marse Willum," he said, "God made three good things for his niggers. One good thing is de gals; 'nother good thing is 'ligion, and de other good thing, an' de best of all—I ain't gwine tell to nobody."

Emptying his glass at a single draught, he added, "But ev'ybody know sweeten' dram is de best of um all."

In very hot weather Old Man Robert wore, while at work, a kind of Mother Hubbard shirt reaching to his knees—a not ungraceful garment, declared by him to be "mighty cool and pleasant, sah."

One of Old Man Robert's pieces of absent-mindedness in the smithy was to leave the "slack-tub" empty. The "slack-tub" is a tub of water for cooling and tempering purposes. On one occasion Old Man Robert was hard at work on a plowshare. I noticed, when I entered the scene of his labors, that the slack tub was empty. He was busily engaged in "puttin' on a keen edge," as he expressed it, and finally placed the implement in the fire for the last time. The creek ran within fifty yards of the smithy—the public road lying between the creek and the smithy. Old Man Robert jerked the plowshare out of the fire now and then to examine it, and when it had reached the proper stage he started for the slack-tub to cool it. Seeing the tub empty he looked dumbfounded, and I cried, "Take it to the creek."

He waited for no second bidding, in his excitement, but sailed across the road like a rocket, his Mother Hubbard standing out in the back at an angle that would have been straight enough to play marbles on. He made good time to the edge of the water, and, his headway being so strong, both he and the plowshare disappeared from view. Old Man Robert soon reappeared, but his tongs and plowshare have never "turned up."

As he splashed his way ashore he was heard to mutter: "Hit moughty curis to me how niggers is such big fools. White man tell nigger to put he head in de fire, an' nigger jus' big fool 'nough to go 'long and do it. But he ain't gwine do it fer nothin', though, kase dis yer Old Man Robert got to have he dram fer jumpin in dat crick. 'Bleeged to have it!"

I pretended not to hear these murmurings, but as he approached me he continued: "White man, you de 'casion of gittin' dis nigger in de troubles. Kase I done ruint mer shirt jumpin' in dat crick, and better'n dat I done cotched cole,—leastwise I's in a fa'r way to cotchin' cole, kase I ain't got no dram to keep um off, less I gwine let you took dis nigger down to de white folkses' house and git some dram. Ain't dat right, white folks? Dey knowed nigger ain't gwine get hese'f wet 'thout he know dram in sight of um. 'Rish, git mer udder shirt dry times I gits back from de big boss' house, kase he done axed me to go 'long home wid um fer to git some dram fer to keep out de cole I gwine cotch from fallin' in de water, if I don't make 'aste and get somepin' fer to keep um out."—Times-Democrat.

J. M. Barrie, the novelist, is said to have political ambitions. He aspires to represent his native place in Scotland, but as the sitting member is, like Mr. Barrie himself, a strong liberal, the historian of Thiums may have to wait several years before he can gratify his longing for parliament honors.

Though England has had many prime ministers who lived to be octogenarians, there has been but one British premier in this century besides Mr. Gladstone, and none in the last, who was in office when past 80. That aged statesman was Lord Palmerton, who died at his post in his 81st year, in 1865.

There are now in existence 1,168 submarine cable sections, with a total length of about 143,011 nautical miles of cable. Of these 833 sections, or a length of 13,383 miles, are under the administration of different governments. France takes the lead with 3,269 miles, Great Britain follows with 1,599 miles, Germany with 1,579 miles and Italy with 1,027 miles. The balance of 335 cables, with a total length of 129,628 miles, are the property of private telegraph companies. Nearly all this vast length of cable has been manufactured on the banks of the river Thames. Italy, however, has now a cable factory, and France last year turned out 1,500 miles from a factory at Calais, and a second factory is now in course of construction. To keep these cables in repair requires the exclusive service of 37 specially constructed and equipped telegraph ships, having a total tonnage of 56,955 tons. Ten of these are, however, kept almost exclusively for laying operations, and their tonnage amounts to 30,131 tons.

Only a small portion of the wick is allowed to burn, the heat resulting from it causing a distillation of the oil rising to the top of the rest of the wick. It is claimed that by thus vaporizing the oil there is a considerable saving, while at the same time there is a complete absence of smell and smoke.

THE DEFEAT OF SULLIVAN.

Champion Corbett Analyzes His Victory.

He Tells How He Won from the Boston Boy.

General Sporting News—Base Ball Scores—Cleveland's Lead—General Mention.

The following interesting article was written by Mr. James J. Corbett, the champion of champions, on his trip up from New Orleans:

"It is rather a hard matter for a man to tell how he would act in certain moments of danger, therefore you will realize how difficult it is to answer your request for a statement of how a pugilist makes an attack or defends himself from an attack. It is altogether according to circumstances. Some boxers are small and active and others large and slow. Some have powerful left hands, while others rely upon the right. There are no set rules either for attack or defense.

"A boxer to be successful must study his man as an artist studies the subject for a picture. 'Feel him out,' if possible, without giving your own points away. Study two or three different counters for every blow so that your opponent will not know which one to expect. Keep any plan you have formed well in mind and wait for an opportunity to use it.

"Thus, if you see that in swinging his right your opponent leaves the right side of his neck unguarded, lay for a cross counter with your right. It may not come for a round or so, but when it does come do not forget for an instant what to do. Do not get rattled and try with your left. Map out your battle like the general of an army and do not change it unless the conditions change.

"It would be hard to tell just where I learned the tactics that I use in the ring. I think I have learned a point or two from every man I ever put up my hands against. They would have a few things with which I was not familiar, then after the bout I would go to my room or the gymnasium and practice them until I got them down fine. Since I first put on the gloves I have been ambitious to become perfect as a boxer. Hence I have studied every point as it arose and forgotten none of them.

"Early in my experience I found that a sure judgment of distance and a quick eye was absolutely necessary to make a good boxer. I practiced for months to acquire them. I used to allow the boys to swing for me to see how nearly I could estimate their reach. Practice enabled me to gauge the blows so closely that I could feel the wind of their gloves on my face. Then again in practicing for quick eye sight I would allow them to lead straight for my face. When the blow came within six inches of my nose I would duck and it would pass over my shoulder. I consider quickness of eyesight and ability to judge distance the first requisite of a good boxer. I believe that to be more important than the principles of attack, because it is comparatively easy to repulse an attack if you have good eyesight and good backing ability.

"There are very few in the world able to hit a good boxer in the face with a straight lead when the boxer knows what is coming. He will duck his head sidewise before you can land every time. I never saw a boxer in my life but I tried to get his good points. I can tell them quick enough, too. Early in my experience I used to be fond of parrying blows. I found that they would sometimes get through my guard in spite of everything. Then I began to rely upon my legs and my eyesight. I found it a great deal better plan. If I was not sure of what a man intended to do I found it the best plan to step to my right and keep away until I sized up my opponent's intentions.

"If the reader of this will put up his hands fighting fashion and let some agile man dance around in a circle to his left he will find how hard it is to land any kind of a blow. My present style of fighting is made up more or less of the styles of all fighters instead of hanging to one style. I always try to have several to fall back upon if necessary. If I find that I can do more with an opponent by standing still and letting him come to me I will not shift a foot. If I see that my opponent is disposed to stand still I will go to him. Nine pugilists out of ten rely upon parrying blows, instead of estimating distance and getting away. I do the latter because I believe it to be the best and surest way to get behind an opponent's guard. About the only time I ever parry a blow is when I am cornered and the rope will not allow me to get back.

"The reader who has seen many fights will know that nine out of every ten pugilists when they corner an opponent will hit for his face instead of his stomach. I do not know why they do this, but I know it to be a fact. Possibly they have a knock-out in their minds. At any rate they will bang away at the face and let the stomach alone unless it comes to a clinch. I always remember this when cornered and throw my arms in front of my face like a letter X, and upward in time to throw off my opponent's blows. Of course I have often been hit when cornered, but I have generally managed to keep clear. One thing of which I am rather proud is the fact that I have never in all my experience been knocked down, and I firmly believe this to be because I almost always shift back or to one side instead of parrying.

"It is a comparatively easy matter to dodge a man like Sullivan. I do not want to be misunderstood. No man ever made a gamer or more manly fight than he, but he was entirely too heavy on his feet to catch an active man. I firmly believe that it was an entirely new experience for him to find a man who was not afraid of him, and one who gave him glare for glare. Whenever his eyes turned green and he looked especially furious I would make it a point to go in and mix up with him just to let him know that I was not afraid of him. This, I think, surprised him more than anything else.

"I think I deserve more credit for the first round, when I did not strike a blow, than for almost any other one in the fight. When time was called I began to feel him out. He would lunge for me and I would gauge his force and speed and see just where his weak points were, then I would make a feint and try to bring out another weak point. In this way he showed me his entire hand. His best plan would have been to stand stock still and let me come to him. If he had done this I would have thought he had something up his sleeve, and I would have been very cautious how I went in. When I heard the people hissing I wanted to tell them to wait; instead of this I held up a glove, but they did not know what it meant. They thought I was running away when I was only sizing him up.

"My principal desire throughout the fight was to keep him moving and not give him a moment's rest. Whenever I would get away too far he would drop his hands in the expectations of getting a rest. Then, in accordance with my plan of battle, I would jump in again and up would go his hands. It takes a big man some time to get set for a blow. A man has to set himself just like a runner for a foot race before he can strike. I would fiddle away in front of his face until I could see that he was almost set, then I would make a step to his left. This would throw him all off again. Then if he put down his hands for a brief rest I went at him, knowing that he was not ready for me.

"I was surprised to see Sullivan in such good condition. I knew the papers had said that he was in good shape, but I thought the reports were exaggerated. In that whole fight I had not one moment or one blow to regret. The report that Mr. Sullivan called me an offensive name while boxing is untrue. The only discourteous thing he did was to throw my hand asid after shaking it. Under the circumstances I suppose this was natural. Anyway, I forgive him for it. I say again that he made a good, game fight, and a manly speech after it. Had he beaten me I would have done the same. I do not mean to boast when I say that I could have knocked Mr. Sullivan out far sooner than I did had it not been for Mr. Delaney, my second. In the second round I felt sure of him, and wanted to go at him and fight fast, but Delaney kept me back. He told me that Sullivan was still strong on his legs and that I had better fight at his belt until he got weaker. I did so, but it was all I could do to restrain myself whenever I saw an opening. Almost every time I landed my left on his neck the blow was a counter. He would jump forward with a chopping left handed blow. I would bob my head to one side and it would go over my shoulder. This would bring him in good reach and I would swing my left glove on his neck.

"When the twenty-first round opened Mr. Delaney told me to fight as fast as I pleased. This was what I wanted. Up to this time my mouth had not even been moistened by a lemon and I was not winded in the least. For this I thank my trainers. It would be unfair to criticise Mr. Sullivan's style of boxing, consequently it would be difficult for me to tell just what occurred in the twenty-first and final round. Mr. Sullivan opened it with a rush which I eluded by a side step. Then as he came in I landed on the face with my left, which stopped him, and then before he could recover I fought him to the ropes and went at him so fast that he became dazed and did not know where to guard. A few moments later the fight came to an end and I was pronounced the victor.

JAMES J. CORBETT."

P. Jay writes to the New York Recorder to claim that Sullivan that Sullivan was drugged when Corbett knocked him out. P. Jay, or Prince of Jays, is a good name for a man who believes any such rot. Sullivan was defeated because he met a better man. Listen to what P. Jay says:

"The opinions of the best friends of John L. Sullivan are that the defeat of the big fellow was the result of a "job," and tha the was "stiffened" before he entered the ring. They do not hesitate to say that he big man from Boson was poisoned, and some even go so far as to insinuate that men who should be closest to the ex-champion were cognizant of the fact that he was to be given the "high low." Since the defeat be given hrodlhr low." Since the defeat of the strong boy his friends have argued that he could not have made so poor a showing if he was right, and they have gone to work systematically to prove the truth of their assertions. They have aken up the thread of circumsantial evidence and worked on it with care, and now they believe they have matters in such a shape that Sullivan's greatness will be made apparent, and the fact that he was not defeated on the level made palpable. They have no doubt he was done wrong by, and say so without any hesitancy."

Columbus, O., Sept. 15.—A sensational affair occurred at the fair grounds when the hackneys were being judged. Col. Bruce, of the Turf, Field and Farm, was one of the judges. John A. Logan, jr., had one of his fine horses entered, while Mr. Burgess, of Illinois, also had horses in competition. Mr. Logan and Col. Bruce are warm friends, but as he was an expert on horses it made no difference and he was selected. When he give it as his opinion that Mr. Logan's horse ought to get first Mr. Burgess objected to Col. Bruce acting as a judge, and the result was that one of the best judges on horses was disqualified. Mr. Burgess' horse got first, and second was tendered Mr. Logan, who indignantly refused it. Hot words followed, and things looked serious, when Mr. Logan announced that he would take his stable of 11 fine horses from the grounds at once.

"Tariff Reform" has a delightful flavor and certainly deserves all the popularity it is getting.

AMONG SOLDIER BOYS.

The Battle of Chickamauga Commemorated.

Anniversary of the Battle of Antietam.

Grand Army Boys Have Much to Call Their Attention to the Days Gone By.

Chickamauga, Tenn., Sept. 15.—To-day is the anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga, and for this reason was chosen as the opening day of the twenty-third annual reunion of the Army of the Cumberland.

September 19, four days hence, is the anniversary of the battle of Antietam, and on the 20th the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be inaugurated at Washington.

It is a great week for the old soldiers, and many of them, besides participating in the two reunions, will visit the battle fields of Gettysburg and Antietam to witness the dedication of monuments to their dead comrades.

Invitations to the reunion at this place have been sent to every one of the one hundred thousand survivors of the Army of the Cumberland, and as near as can be estimated nearly one-half of this number have responded.

All public organizations in Chattanooga have united in receiving the veterans. These include the city authorities, the Chamber of Commerce, the confederate veterans and an influential local committee. One of the most imposing features of the reunion will be the laying of the corner stone of the Wilder's brigade monument, which is being erected upon the spot where their famous charge was made. Gen. Wilder himself is the promoter of the project and the largest subscriber. The structure when completed will be 110 feet high, and the shaft will be ascended by means of a spiral stairway constructed entirely of iron, which will open at the top in a steel balcony three feet wide. A safe will be built in a basement with compartments for each regiment, to be used for whatever purpose they may designate. The names of the regiments and the batteries will be inscribed on tablets of white marble. Owing to the fact that Gen. Alger, who has addressed the soldiers' meetings at this place for many years, is unable to be present, the annual address will be delivered by Gen. H. V. Boynton.

IT WAS NO SURPRISE.

The Maine Slump Was Generally Expected.

It was but the Echo of the Condition of the Voters' Mind as Shown in Vermont.

Washington, Sept. 15.—(Special)—To the republicans in the national capital the slump in Maine was a foregone conclusion. Republican Chairman Manley knew, days ago, by the trembling of the granite beneath his feet, exactly what was coming; and at the eleventh hour he frantically cast about him for grains of comfort with which to reassure the republicans of the land that the cataclysm would not be much of an affair after all.

As naturally happens with campaign literature inspired by panic, Manley's soothing circular was exceedingly ridiculous—a fact which intelligent republicans did not lose sight of. He explained, for instance, that there was a new Australian ballot law—as if that would not operate, at least, as adversely on the democratic as on the republican vote; and that the democrats were making heroic efforts to carry the state—as if the republicans had not done the same, with their 110 "rallies" during the past week alone, and their gathering-in of stumpers from all quarters of the country.

But Manley, in his ripe experience as an old campaigner, felt that the bottom was dropping out of the G. O. P. citadel; and Manley was right. The Maine pines have made answer to the Vermont hill-tops; and their blended voices will sound like a wailing dirge in the camps of McKinleyism.

OPENED THE SAFE.

Daring Robbery Reported at Waterville.

Several Hundred Dollars Taken and the Safe Relocked Again.

Waterville, O., Sept. 15.—(Special)—The safe of our village treasurer, Mr. L. Van Fleet, was burglarized some time between Saturday evening and Monday morning. The safe was considered thoroughly burglar proof, and contained a strong steel cash box. Mr. Van Fleet loses between $400 and $500. The loss was not discovered until Tuesday evening, as Mr. Van Fleet had no occasion to open his cash box on Monday.

The burglar who did the job was evidently a "Napoleon of finance" in his particular line, as the locks on safe and cash box had been unlocked by the combination.

The combination on the cash box was changed by the robber and the box relocked.

Mr. Van Fleet succeeded in striking the new combination after working all day Tuesday. Orders to the amount of $300 had been issued for work on the corporation, which Mr. Van Fleet intended paying Tuesday.

CATHOLIC AFFAIRS.

New York, Sept. 15.—Eight Catholic bishops, belonging to the diocese which forms the province of New York, met today at the residence of Archbishop Corrigan on Fiftieth street. The bishops conferred upon the question to be considered at the arch episcopal synod meeting to be held in this city on November 16. One of the most important questions to come before the archbishops then will be that of the parochial schools in the United States.

MANY GRAPES.

London, Sept. 15.—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Paris says:

In the Burgundy district, if the warm weather continues for a fortnight the grape harvest will be fairly favorable. The yield is expected to be from one-third to one-half of an average yield. In the celebrated Meursault vineyard the yield of high class wine will be small, but the quality will be exceptionally good.

Dry Goods.

New York, Sept. 15.—There was but little change in the dry goods market. Jobbers did not appear to be quite as active as yesterday, but business at first hands was rather better, transactions on the spot especially being more numerous and more important. The dealings in shirtings are quite exceptional. There are some Calcutta offers for jaconets and mulls at the lowest level of prices. Printing cloths are slow. Heavy goods are quiet, although there is a better inquiry for small lots. In colored woven goods the dealings are fair. Quotations do not vary. Yarns are quiet but firm.

SWALLOWED THE BABY.

Several Days After the Fish Was Caught and the Corps Was Recovered.

Guthrie, O. T., Sept. 15.—Between Tecumseh and Purcell, on the banks of the Canadian river, lives John James, a negro, and his wife and half-a-dozen children. About a week ago a seven-year-old son took the baby, aged eight months, out for a ride in his wagon. Soon after the boy rushed into the house naked and stated that he had gone in swimming and left the baby in the wagon on the bank. Suddenly the wagon started down the bank and the baby plunged into the river and sank out of sight.

The parents ran to the stream but could find no trace of the baby. The river was dragged, but though the wagon was soon pulled out no body was found. Funeral services were then held in memory of the little one.

A few days after, the father and brother of the drowned child caught an immense catfish, and when they came to clean the fish, they found in the stomach the remains of the missing child. The body was badly torn and badly chewed up, but could be recognized as that of a colored baby.

The remains were put in a coffin, with some portions of fish from which they could not be separated, and another funeral was held.

The gathering promises to be one of the largest of the kind ever held, and all shipmates, whether belonging to the Grand Army of the Republic and kindred organizations or not, have been invited to be present.

THE SWITCHMEN.

Annual Convention Being Held in Dallas.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 15.—The annual convention of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association opened here this afternoon. The meeting is attracting interest chiefly on the account of the election of a successor to President Sweeney, who is said to have inaugurated the Buffalo strike as a bid for re-election. In view of the disastrous termination of that movement, however, his action has proved something of a boomerang, and his chances for re-election are now regarded as very slim.

WANT TO LYNCH HIM.

A Mob After the Murderer of Jailer Tipton.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 15.—Alonzo Brookshire was secretly taken from the Lexington jail yesterday afternoon to Frenchburg for trial for murdering Jailer Tipton and Deputy Sheriff Howard.

The news comes from Mt. Sterling this morning that a mob of 100 armed men left there last night for Frenchburg for the avowed purpose of lynching Brookshire this morning. They say they will not wait for night because they have been foiled so often before.

A STRIKING FEATURE
Of our Carpets is the phenomenal figures at which we are selling them. There isn't any other name for these figures—they are phenomenal. They are figures that make figures of speech superfluous. It is almost always the case that, as the temperature goes up, prices go down. We are not responsible for a fall in prices. A case of jaundice due to movable kidney has recently been reported by Dr. White, a physician in Guy's hospital, London, which throws some light upon the fact long ago observed that jaundice and gallstones occur much more frequently in women than in men, and especially in women who are addicted to tight lacing.

Not Only Beyond the City Limits, But Outside of the Church.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 17.—John Mamaux and Juliene Wiesman, two well-known people in society circles of this city, have just returned from Cumberland, Md., to which point they eloped several days ago, and were married by a Presbyterian minister. Mr. Mamaux is 21 years old, and lives at 636 Washington street. His father, Albert Mamaux, is an awning maker at 537 Penn avenue. Miss Wiesman lives on Watson street. She is 19 years old. The couple had kept company for some time. Both families are strict Catholics, and the prospective match was regarded as unexceptionable on both sides, but the young woman's parents did not want to give their daughter up just yet, and the young man was the only child left at home, and his father and mother, too, were in favor of delay. This did not suit the young folks. Mr. Mamaux became of age a short time ago. Two weeks ago his parents took a trip to Philadelphia and have not come back yet.

All this was favorable to an elopement. The matter was looked up, and it was found that in Maryland a youth of 21 and a maiden of 18 can get a marriage license. So at 8 o'clock last Saturday morning they started for Cumberland. They got there all right and easily procured their marriage license. Getting married was not so easy. They sought a priest, and he questioned the prospective bride closely. He found that she was not of age, besides no marriage bans had been published, and he refused to marry them. The young couple are both devout Catholics, and it was with much regret that they sought a Protestant preacher. That was their only resource, however, and they came home man and wife. The bride's parents are said to be angry over the affair, as it involves a public penance in the church if the couple do not wish to consider themselves excommunicated. A dispensation from the bishop will be necessary to reinstate them in the church, and even then they must appear before the congregation during mass in an attitude of penance for violating the laws of the church. The latter is very humiliating, and has been done but by one couple at St. Paul's Cathedral, Pittsburg, in the past ten years. As the families of the young people are very religious, the bride and groom will have to grin and bear it. They throw the blame on the priest, who, they say, had a chance to marry them, but refused.

HIS LIFE'S RECORD.

A methodical man died in Berlin a few days ago, aged 73. At the age of 18 he began keeping a record, which he continued for 52 years, and then closed, with the words: Omnia tentavi, multa perspexi, nihil perfeci.

This book showed that in 52 years he had smoked 628,715 cigars, of which he had received 43,692 as presents, while for the remaining 585,021 he had paid about $16,433. During the same period he had had 85 pairs of trousers made, 74 coats and waistcoats and 62 pairs of boots. He wore out 298 shirts and "fronts" and 326 collars. In car fares he spent not far from $428. In 15 years, according to his bookkeeping, he had drunk 28,786 glasses of Bavarian beer, of which, however, 21,261 were only small ones. For this beer and 36,081 glasses of cognac and spirits he spent $5,350. He gave tips amounting to $1,305.—The Argonaut.

HE HAD BEEN THERE.

"My son," said a Detroit father, "I see Mars goes into occultation with the moon on Saturday night, and if you are a good boy you may sit up and see it."

"Thanks, awfully, pa," answered the small boy, "but if the moon don't come out any better after one of ma's occulashuns than I do, I guess I don't want to sit up and see the poor thing. You can give me a pair of skates Christmas instead."—Detroit Free Press.

GAMBLING WITH OYSTERS.

Betting on Which One of a Lot of Bivalves Will Yawn First.

The oyster is becoming demoralized. It was not enough to be expensive, he has lent himself to gambling and bad habits and becomes the cause of expense to others. So says a London journal. The oyster game began in Ostend, it is said, where a party of gamblers having sat down to dinner, some fresh oysters were brought in. Immediately one backed his oyster to gape first. The idea was hailed with the greatest enthusiasm. A set of impromptu rules was drawn up, and each of the dozen guests selected his oyster, and the contest began. The first oyster to yawn was to get the entire stake. Half an hour passed and not one of the oysters showed the slightest disposition to open. Down below stairs the cook was swearing volubly, and giving up his roast and entrees for worse than lost. But the oysters were not in any hurry, and the diners were so engrossed with their bivalves that they had entirely forgotten their appetites.

An hour slipped by, and still the oysters gave no signs of opening. The stakes were doubled to heighten the excitement. Word of the contest had reached the casino, and when the second hour of the contest was begun the dining table was surrounded by a crowd of lookers-on, who caught the gamblers' enthusiasm. They picked out their favorite oysters, and in one or more cases actually backed them to the extent of 600 pounds. Another half hour and the oysters remained as undemonstrative as ever. The excitement became intense. At last, just as the third hour was completed, one of the oysters gaped feebly and then fell wide open on its owner's plate. This poor oyster had had something of a thirst on and couldn't stand the close atmosphere of its own shell any longer. When the lucky owner of this oyster came to count his winnings he found that they amounted to 7,000 pounds. Oyster matches became instantly the rage at Ostend, and since then they have become equally popular in Paris.

ICEBERGS IN THE ALPS.

Rare Phenomenon That Generally Occurs on the Sea Coast.

When Lord Lonsdale returned from British America he excited some amusement by telling of the wonderful icebergs he had seen pouring over falls in the rivers into one of the big lakes. It was thought icebergs never originated inland. It is a curious fact, however, that last summer there was in the Alps an interesting glacial phenomenon which may be compared with the caving of glaciers in the Arctic regions.

In the valley of the Kaunserthal, about four miles from its junction with the Inn river, is the village of Nufels. The high road here crosses the side valley of the Nufler, which has its source in the great heap of rocky debris at the foot of the Galkrut glacier. Of late years this glacier had receded, and a lake had been formed at its foot. Gradually the lake, as its volume increased, extended under the glacier. During two cold summer months the lake received but a small water supply, and its surface sank until at last the end of the glacier was actually hanging in the air above it.

On August 7 of last year the end of the glacier, a mass of ice estimated at 70,000 cubic feet, broke off and fell into the lake, causing it to burst through the embankment and rush down the valley, carrying with it great masses of mud and rock.—New York Sun.

An exciting bear fight occurred last week on Tsilcoos lake, Lane county, Washington. While Mr. Brewster and family and James Furnish were crossing the lake they espied Bruin out in the water, and at once gave chase. Not having a gun along, Mr. Brewster attacked him with a board. After a furious contest, during which the huge monster went under the boat and nearly swamped it, the plucky man was forced to give it up in sheer fatigue, and the tired and bleeding animal gained the shore.
